

President Never Signed NRA Order to Cancel Service Trade Codes

WASHINGTON—The NRA Board is secretly worried over a prize faux pas it recently uncovered.

Looking through the vast accumulation of files left by its predecessor, the Board dug up the Presidential order discontinuing a number of service trade codes. Their abandonment had been announced with a flourish by General Johnson last spring. But much to its horror, the Board found that the order never had been signed by the President.

Why the document never reached the White House, or, if it did, why it was returned without Roosevelt's signature, has not been discovered.

But there it is, unsigned, and the codes—pertaining to hotels, restaurants, cleaning and dying—were laid on the shelf months ago.

Organized labor, over whose vigorous objections Johnson junked the codes, has seized this unexpected opening to demand reinstatement. Johnson revoked the codes on the ground that violations were so easy and widespread as to make the task of enforcement impossible.

The unionites do not deny this argument. But they counter with the contention that to strip these trades of codes is to deprive over 2,000,000 of poorly paid workers of even "paper" protection.

They hold it is preferable to have the codes violated wholesale, than to have no codes at all. Through the NRA Labor Advisory Board they are demanding that the Board revive the codes. If that demand is rejected they threaten to take the issue directly to the President.

Speakership Deal

Inner Administration masterminds are secretly pushing a plan by which the White House will get the Speaker and Floor Leader whom Roosevelt privately wants in command of the new House.

These preferences are: For Speaker, Texas' decisive, veteran Sam Rayburn; for Floor Leader, Massachusetts' level-headed John W. McCormack.

Roosevelt believes that with them in command, he can keep his unruly majority in check.

Taking a leading part in lining up support for this ticket are Vice-President Jack Garner; Edward J. Flynn, Bronx Tammany leader and co-boss; with Jim Farley—of New York Democracy; and Senator Joe Guffey, Democratic potentate of Pennsylvania.

These chieftains control a bloc of 72 House members. With the New England support that McCormack's candidacy is expected to rally, the number comes close to 110, a little less than one-third of the Democratic strength in the chamber.

During the next six weeks this potentially backed slate will have to do some vigorous behind-the-scenes maneuvering to master the 75 or 100 additional votes necessary to beat Tennessee's ambitious Joe Byrnes.

Whether this can be done remains to be seen. At any rate, wily Ed Flynn is allowing no grass to grow under his feet. Election returns were hardly in, when he quietly appeared in Washington to start his vote garnering.

Merry-Go-Round

Bonus-demanding veterans will have powerful backing in the new Congress. An unofficial check places 178 House members and 38 Senators either pledged or on record for bonus legislation. One of Oklahoma's new Democratic Representatives makes no bones about his intention of making the welkin ring when he takes his seat. A professor of public speaking at the University of Oklahoma, Josh Lee, 42-year-old war veteran, declares: "I intend to be the noisiest freshman in the House in defense of the industry in time of war as well as men." Colorado's militantly liberal Senator Edward P. Costigan definitely plans to reintroduce his federal anti-lynching bill shortly after the new session convenes.

YEGGS WRECK BANK, ISOLATE TOWN, ESCAPE

President of Wood - co Bank Hears Robbers Trying to Break Into Vault.

EVADES BULLETS

Damage Done Although No Loot Taken

CYGNET, O., Nov. 15.—Awakened at three o'clock in the morning by the noise of robbers jimmying the entrance into the bank downstairs, Charles Schwyn, president of the Cygnet Savings bank, today frustrated the plans of a gang of yeggs to "blow" and loot the bank vault.

The yeggs were put to flight when Schwyn was fired upon by a frightened lookout for the robber gang as he sighted the bank president, dressed in his sleeping attire, running across the roof of the building to awaken neighbors.

300 WIRES CUT

Before attempting to gain entrance into the bank, the bandit gang had invaded the telephone exchange of Cygnet, located three doors away from the bank, and ruthlessly cut all wires they could lay their hands on. Employees of the telephone company estimated that at least 300 telephone wires were cut. Only one cable was undisturbed. The town's street light cable also was cut by the bandits. Succeeding in dodging the gunfire of the frightened bandit outlook in the street below, Schwyn safely reached a neighbor's apartment and awakened its occupants and enlisted their aid in getting to the telephone exchange where the operator put in a hurried call to the sheriff's office at Bowling Green.

Meantime, the bank building was wrecked with a series of explosions as the bandits set off about six or seven charges of nitroglycerine. The blasts shattered all windows in the building, cracked the walls and wrecked the interior. None of the charges, however, succeeded in tearing open the door of the bank vault.

Outside, in the meantime, the bandit outlook accosted another citizen, Dean Snyder, who was heading for the telephone exchange to call a doctor to attend a sick member of his family. He had been unable, because of the cut wires, to reach the exchange by telephone and had presumed that the operator probably was asleep.

FIRE AT SYNDER

The quick-triggered outlook began firing upon Snyder, but none of the bullets found their mark. Shortly afterward, the sheriff's car sped into town and the look-out shouted to the yeggs inside.

DAVEY NAMES WOMAN AIDE

Mrs. Myrna Smith, His Employee For 14 Years, To Be Governor's Secretary.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 15.—Governor-elect Martin L. Davey today announced his first appointment and the appointee is a woman.

She is Mrs. Myrna Young Smith, 32, who for the last 14 years, according to Davey, has been his "right-hand-man." Mrs. Smith, who is the mother of a four-year-old boy and whose husband, Barton H. Smith, is an employee of the state department of industrial relations, will be Davey's "chief secretary."

The appointment is precedent-breaking, since it will be the first time in the history of the state that a woman has been named to this important post—a post which carries much responsibility and one which requires tact and diplomacy.

As "chief secretary," Mrs. Smith will be in charge of a secretarial staff of four which will include an executive secretary and two assistants.

The post to which Mrs. Smith was appointed and which she has accepted, is the one which Don K. Rennels, head of the Democratic publicity bureau here, rejected a few days ago on the grounds that he preferred to retain his present position.

Mrs. Smith became associated with Davey in his private business in 1919 and has been with him continuously since. At present she is secretary of the Democratic state executive committee, a post to which she was appointed following the primary election recently. She will resign this post shortly before the inauguration of the new governor to assume her new duties.

Cheaper Liquor Seen

Reduction as High as 20 Per Cent Is Plan, Alliance Board Member, Says.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 15.—Cheaper liquor prices than in any other state was the announced aim of the Ohio liquor control board today.

A reduction running as high as 20 per cent on state liquor store prices was foreseen by George J. O'Brien, Alliance member of the board, because of reduced operating costs and a possibility that the legislature may enact a law to allow the department to keep a part of permit fees.

NO UNDER CUTTING

However, there was no prospect of under-cutting other states in liquor prices until after January 1, at the earliest, O'Brien said. "When the department gets all of its debts paid," he continued, "And is enabled to get better prices from the distilleries, the question will be whether the state wants to be satisfied with merely a gallonage tax and only a small profit."

"If this policy is followed, then we will be able to offer liquor at lower prices than in other states," O'Brien pointed out that administrative expenses had dropped from 15.2 per cent of the amount of dollars received from sales to 11.47 as the department was becoming more efficient.

Wellington T. Leonard, chairman of the board, also expressed an opinion that Ohio could undersell other states if the legislature gave the state department a portion of the permit fees which now are distributed to local political subdivisions.

MAN, 83, DIES BY OWN HAND

Jacob Martin Shoots Self With Shotgun in Cellar at Home In Amanda, Thursday.

Apparently despondent, Jacob G. Martin, well known retired Amanda farmer, committed suicide in the cellar of the home he and his sister, Mrs. Susan Valentine, occupy, at 6:30 a. m. Thursday.

Mr. Martin, who was 83 years of age, shot himself through the abdomen with a shotgun. He was dead when his sister found him. Rising early Mr. Martin obtained his gun and went to the cellar without his sister, who is deaf, noticing it. After a while she missed him and started to hunt through the house. She found him lying in a pool of blood with his gun beside him. Because of her deafness she did not hear the discharge.

Coroner James Walt, of Fairfield-co, was called.

Mr. Martin's wife succumbed a year ago. Surviving are two sons, Clarence of South Perry, and Lester of New York; a brother, Adam of East Ringgold, and four sisters, Mrs. Lavina Ashbrook and Mrs. Elizabeth Griffith, of near Amanda, and Mrs. Caroline Moore of California.

Funeral arrangements in charge of H. E. Deffenbaugh and Sons will be announced later.

Typhoon Hits Manila

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 15.—For the third time in recent weeks a terrific typhoon lashed the Philippine Islands today.

While Manila escaped the full pine islands today.

Force of the blast, it was feared there had been heavy property loss and possible loss of life in the outlying provinces.

Communication lines in the immediate vicinity of Manila were being maintained but word from the distant provinces, where it was feared the storm was heaviest, have not been received.

Search Underway For Girl's Killer

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 15.—Deepest mystery shrouded one of the most brutal crimes in this city's history today while every arm of the law reached out to unravel the baffling murder of pretty 6-year-old Dorothy Ann Distelhurst.

Discovery of the nude, decomposed body of the little girl, who had been missing from her home here nearly two months, caused the hasty return from New York of A. E. Distelhurst, Sr., the child's father, where he said he had been trying to contact the supposed kidnaper of his daughter for nearly a week.

TALKS WITH AGENTS

Distelhurst conferred with agents of the department of justice here last night, soon after his arrival, and a conference with Attorney General J. Carlton Loefer was scheduled for today.

Commission Planning Probe of A. T. and T.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—A sweeping investigation into the transactions, business methods, contracts, and general management of the American Telephone and Telegraph company was ordered today by the new federal communications commission.

The A. T. and T. is one of the largest corporations in the world, and through its far-flung organization dominates the telephone business of the nation.

The investigation also will include the A. T. and T. subsidiaries.

DRIVER FREED AFTER PROBE OF COLLISION

Officers Sift Accident Fatal To William McCune Near New Holland.

William B. Hardin, 28, of the U. S. naval yards at Philadelphia, was released from custody Wednesday evening after Sheriff Charles Radloff, Prosecutor Ray W. Davis and Coroner C. E. Bowers thoroughly sifted the accident in which William C. McCune, 46, Park-st, employee of the state highway department, was killed Wednesday morning.

Hardin was under technical arrest pending the outcome of the investigation. He was enroute to Louisville, Ky., where a brother is reported seriously ill, when the accident happened east of New Holland.

McCune was working in a ditch when Hardin's speeding automobile left the highway striking him. The car was wrecked. Hardin was not hurt but a hitch-hiker, Frank Meade, 56, of Duquesne, Ark., suffered a cut across his nose.

McCune, survived by his widow, six children and five brothers, removed to this city only two weeks ago from the New Holland vicinity where he had been a lifelong resident.

The funeral will be Friday at 2 p. m. at the New Holland M. E. church with Rev. W. B. Rose, of Williamsport, officiating. Burial will be in the New Holland cemetery by A. W. Kirk.

Rev. W. A. Moore, of the Williamsport Methodist Episcopal church, conducted impressive last rites for Mrs. Jennie Tipton, widow of the late Thomas Tipton, at the residence in Williamsport Wednesday afternoon. The spacious Tipton home was crowded for the services.

Interment was in Springlawn cemetery.

Pall bearers were W. D. Helsick, Clark Hunsicker, Charles Carmean, Lee Luelien, C. W. Hays and E. C. Rector.

Services were held at the Williamsport M. E. church this afternoon for Miss Mary Catherine Baker, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Baker, victim of an automobile-traction car collision Sunday near Dayton.

Rev. W. A. Moore also conducted these services.

YOUTH DYING OF GUNSHOT WOUNDS

WILMINGTON, Nov. 15.—Edward Hayslip, 15, of Clarksville, was believed dying here today from gunshot wounds received yesterday when he attempted to prevent his enraged father from shooting his mother.

Doctors said the boy's wound was so serious that it was unlikely he could live.

After shooting his wife, the father, Homer Hayslip, 54, turned the gun on himself. He died a short time later. Mrs. Hayslip, 55, was shot in the neck but her wound was not considered serious.

CONGRESSMAN DIES

LOGANSPORT, Ind., Nov. 15.—Frederick Landis, 62 years old, Indiana's only successful Republican candidate for Congress in the election last week, died here early today at the Cass-co hospital.

CITY LEADERS ASK APPROVAL OF SALES TAX

"Haven't Chance to Operate After First of Year," Dayton Man Says

TO UNITE EFFORTS

Action To Be Sought In Monday Session

COLUMBUS, Nov. 15.—A warning that most Ohio cities "haven't a Chinaman's chance" of operating after the first of the year unless they receive state aid was sounded today as officials representing the cities and school interests met here in an attempt to consolidate their efforts to obtain passage of the three-cent retail sales tax at the special session of the legislature Monday.

Both Mayor Henry Worley, of Columbus, and E. E. Hagerman, director of finance at Dayton, declared that the cities were prepared to fight for equitable distribution of the revenue expected to be derived from the sales tax. Hagerman sounded the warning that cities would be unable to operate unless state aid was forthcoming.

SKINNER THERE, TOO

Representing the interests of education officials who also have been clamoring for adoption of the sales tax was Dr. B. O. Skinner, state director of education. He was unable to tell the conference, he said, how much money the schools needed in 1935.

However, it previously had been estimated at $35,000,000 and it also was said that relief requirements would be $10,000,000. That would leave approximately $15,000,000 on the basis of a $60,000,000 tax collection, to be distributed to the cities and counties.

"That wouldn't be a drop in the bucket for the cities," said Hagerman. "Why Dayton needs a million dollars alone and unless we get it, I don't see how we can keep operating in 1935. Of course, we can borrow in anticipation of tax revenues from other sources but even then our limit would be $12,500,000, and that wouldn't be enough to keep the city running a month."

"I believe that other cities, with the exception of Cincinnati, are faced with practically the same problem. The condition in Dayton can be taken as representative of the larger cities."

"SCHOOLS MUST AGREE"

Mayor Worley said he called the conference today in a hope that schools and cities may reach some agreement over distribution. Unless an agreement is reached, he said, the cities were prepared to fight for their share at hearings held on the sales tax proposal by the legislature. He indicated that there would be a lively fight over distribution "if the schools won't go along with us."

The meeting today, he said, was in preparation for a statewide conference of mayors of cities tomorrow. Fifty-eight mayors from all parts of the state have been asked to attend the session here today, he declared.

Fate of Vanderbilt Child To Be Learned

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—The fate of ten-year-old Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, heiress to $2,800,000 and storm center in one of the most sensational and long-drawn-out habeas corpus proceedings in the history of the New York courts probably will be determined before tonight.

Attorneys for Mrs. Gloria Vanderbilt, the beautiful widowed mother of the child, and for Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, little Gloria's aunt, whose battle for custody of the child shocked New York society and brought members of European nobility rushing across the Atlantic to testify, were to meet with Justice Carew this afternoon.

LAURELVILLE MAN DIES WEDNESDAY

George Burgoon, 79, of Laurelville, died Wednesday at 7 p. m. after a two years' illness. He was a carpenter by trade.

The funeral will be Friday at 2 p. m. at Pine Grove church with burial also there. H. E. Deffenbaugh and Son is in charge.

Mr. Burgoon was survived by his wife, Elizabeth; a son, William, at home, and two daughters, Mrs. Henry Wharf and Mrs. Russell Streets.

DEERCREEK-TWP MAN IS TAKEN

Clyde M. Anderson Succumbs In Hospital After Emergency Operation.

Clyde M. Anderson, 70, of Deercreek-twp, died in Berger hospital at 10:50 p. m. Wednesday after an emergency operation on a punctured hernia.

Mr. Anderson was a native of Ross-co being born June 14, 1867, a son of Samuel and Louisa Leffingwell Anderson.

He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Mary Hornbeck and Mrs. Ophelia Shaw, Williamsport, and by two brothers, Frank and Baxter, both of this city. Mrs. Hornbeck resides at the home of Frank Anderson, Watt-st.

He was married three times, first to Alice Thompson, second to Lulu Thompson and third to Plezia Wright.

Funeral arrangements in charge of C. E. Hill, Williamsport, have not been completed.

Lynch had real roles, the former as a newspaper reporter-impersonator of a society woman candidate for mayor, and the latter as a Jewish bargain store operator.

There isn't much doubt that Charlie and Joe took the show, which rightfully belonged to them. The Grand theatre was filled almost to capacity for the performance which is sponsored by the county board of education for its "shoe fund." Another large crowd is expected this evening when the show is repeated. It should be even better Thursday night than Wednesday since a number of the actors will have gained needed confidence. The curtain goes up at 8:15.

KIRKPATRICK STARS

Kirkpatrick was a "scream." Forced by workers of the People's Party to act for Mrs. Van Dyne, party's nominee for mayor of Centerville, when she missed her boat from Europe, Kirkpatrick, a nose reporter, was transformed into a fast-talking blonde. He was a beauty, and (according to the theme of the comedy) was masqueraded so well that even his sweetheart, another reporter, Sally Carter, portrayed by Mary May Haswell, was deceived so much that she confided her love for Pat O'Donnell, that was Kirkpatrick's reporter name, to the fake Mrs. Van Dyne.

Lynch, taking the part of Able Goldberg, was a show in himself and his use of the language employed by the Jewish vendor was a high-light of the evening.

Although he was only a mock candidate O'Donnell-Van Dyne was in the end elected mayor of Centerville over that arch-gangster, Spider McGinnis, played by John Hegele. His aides were John McGinnis and DeWitt Bach who took the names Duke and Dopey. They looked their names, too.

Others having important parts in the show were Walter Downing, superintendent of the Jackson-twp school, who was Jim Foley, chairman of the People's Party; Dick Robinson, who had the best part he has ever played, as Simpson, secretary of the People's Party; Bernice Shasteen, as Julia Robbins, Simpson's girl friend; Karl Mason as Dr. Jeffrey, who impersonated the French maid; Alvin Sanders who doubled as Judge Fisher and the secretary; Berlin Noble, who was a huge success as Jasper Watson and Minnie, Mrs. Van Dyne's 12-year-old daughter; Mrs. Mary Pickel as Watson's wife; Veronica Kuhs as Mrs. Golders; Sam Chambers as Rollins, rich banker in love with Mrs. Van Dyne; Mrs. Nellie Barton as Beulah Higgenbottom, leader of the Women's Willing Workers; Malcolm Russell as Ward, newspaper reporter; Gordon Dunkel and Ernie Weiler as the cops, and Thomas Harmon as Ivan Awfulchik. Walter Pickel acted as messenger boy.

OTHERS HAD PART

The caucus started the show, with a number of men prominent in the city and county taking part. Several choruses added to the show's success, with singing politicians, women Walter Winchells, modernistic misses, sophisticated kiddies, and a girls' dancing and singing chorus. A German band had a part as did Viola Mae Alkire and her military dance.

The musical numbers were accompanied by Mrs. Marguerite Huston.

The show is directed by Miss Gladys Fewell, of the Universal Producing Co.

After the presentation this evening it will be staged Friday evening at Commercial Point.

4 TRAPPED, BURN

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Trapped in a five-story house on West 78th-st, four persons were burned to death today while occupants of nearby buildings in this fashionable neighborhood looked on in horror.

Flames swept through the building with great rapidity and were bursting from nearly every window when the first fire apparatus arrived.

From windows of nearby houses and apartment buildings women screamed at the arriving firemen: "There are people in that building. For God's sake save them!"

But before firemen could penetrate the interior of the house Henry Russell Browne, 76-year-old wealthy retired wool merchant, his second wife and two other unidentified persons, believed to be servants, had been burned to death by the rapidly mounting flames.

DRUM CORPS NAMES ED EBERT CAPTAIN

The drum corps of Howard Hall post American Legion was reorganized, Wednesday evening, and outlined plans to obtain new uniforms. There are also several vacancies in the drum and bugle section to be filled, officers said today.

The corps elected Ed C. Ebert, captain; William Betts, Jr., secretary; George Burns, treasurer; James Cook, bugle sergeant; C. C. Schwarz, drum sergeant; Henry Mason, supply sergeant; and Frank Littleton, drum major.

THREE CENTS

STATE HUNTING SEASON OPENS; MANY IN FIELD

Marietta Youth Is First Casualty; Two Arrested For Law Violations

400,000 IN ACTION

Appeal Made to Be Careful of Others

With game reported plentiful, scores of hunters took to the fields and woods today for the opening of hunting season on rabbits, pheasants and partridges.

It is estimated that 400,000 were hunting in Ohio.

A check-up of physicians in Circleville and Pickaway-co at noon today failed to unearth any accidents. The initial report where Francis Ketter, 21-year-old Marietta, was accidentally shot by his brother, Edwin, in Washington-co.

He was taken to the Marietta hospital suffering from wounds about his head, face and chest. Physicians said he would recover.

2 VIOLATORS HELD

Although no one was reported shot here, two violators of the law had been called into court.

Aaron Will, Jr., of McArthur, paid a fine of $25 and costs to Squire H. O. Eveland for possessing quail. His shotgun was confiscated and will be sent to state conservation department headquarters. He was arrested by Game Protector Clarence Francis.

Marlin Laughlin, of Lancaster, was arrested by the sheriff's office for trespassing upon complaint of Miller Patrick, Island-rd farmer. Laughlin was fined $5 and costs but the fine was suspended. A number of others also trespassed on the Patrick land but Laughlin was the only one who "got smart," according to Patrick.

State department of conservation officials, in declaring that game was plentiful due to last summer's drought, estimated that the hunters will shoot 1,000,000 rabbits, 100,000 pheasants and a large number of partridges valued at $10,000,000 before the season closes.

Simultaneously, they issued warnings against carelessness in handling guns, which yearly has taken a large total of lives among the hunters.

300 PROTECTORS OUT

A force of 300 game protectors was in the fields, according to conservation Commissioner William Reinhardt. Hunters, he ruled, will be required to open their game bags on request of the protectors. He warned that violation of the game laws was punishable by heavy fines.

The limit on pheasants was two cock birds, on rabbits, five, and on partridges, four.

The bans on coon and opossum was lifted one minute after midnight but most of the hunters in the fields were tracking down rabbits. It was said.

The open season on rabbits will close January 1, on game birds.

CUYAHOGA COUNT DELAYS CERTIFYING

Scarlet Wave Working Overtime For 'Wolves'

COLUMBUS, Nov. 15.—Despite the fact that Ohio State seems to be riding the crest this season and Michigan seems to be in the depths, Coach Francis Schmidt of the Buckeyes is taking nothing for granted.

He is working his charges overtime this week in preparation for the homecoming struggle here Saturday with the Wolverines which seems destined to attract some 65,000 rabid fans.

From all appearances early in the week Schmidt may have his full strength available for the first time this season to throw against Michigan. Fleetfooted Jack Smith, after a two weeks' rest seems to be in condition to go again at full speed and probably will start opposite Dick Heekin, State's candidate for all-America halfback honors. Trevor Rees, regular end, who was kept out of the Chicago game, also is in shape and will be ready to start Saturday.

EXPECTS TO SEE RENNER

Schmidt is spending a greater part of the time this week on defense against passes. He fully expects Bill Renner, Michigan's star passer, to start Saturday, although Renner has been out of every game this year. Having suffered an injured ankle in pre-season practice, "Michigan has one good game in its system and it probably will come out against us," is Schmidt's opinion.

While the new Ohio mentor is spending considerable time on defense he is not letting his own offense slip. Ohio has been able more or less to coast through the last three games and hasn't been compelled to show any of its new tricks. Schmidt is taking them all out of the bag this week and is prepared to literally "shoot the works."

Elaborate preparations are being made by Ohio State athletic officials to take care of the mammoth crowd which bids fair to be the largest to witness a game here since 1930. It was announced today that no temporary seats would be erected even if the supply of regular seats are all sold. By Monday afternoon of this week less than 12,000 tickets were available.

SPECIAL TRAINS COME

Special trains will pull into Columbus from Ann Arbor, Detroit, Toledo, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Dayton, Hamilton, and St. Louis. Homecoming festivities started Monday evening and will reach a climax Friday night when a huge bon fire will be lighted at the north end of the stadium. It is expected that close to 20,000 persons will attend this rally.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—Apparently none the worse for his injuries, Jay Berwanger, star Chicago back, was named today as a certain starter against the Minnesota eleven Saturday.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Nov. 15.—Their offensive polished up in a final workout on the home grounds, Purdue's Boilermakers leave today for the intersectional game with Fordham at New York City Saturday. The same lineup that started against Iowa last Saturday will be used against the eastern eleven, it was indicated by Coach Noble Kizer in the practice session last evening.

BUCKEYE CAPTAIN OUTSTANDING STAR

COLUMBUS, Nov. 15.—When the gridiron critics get their heads together in a few weeks to select all-America players, an Ohio State lad will come in for serious consideration.

He is Captain Regis Monahan, a guard on the Scarlet forward wall, the same wall that has held the running attack of all opponents to small yardage this fall. And Monahan, known on the Ohio campus as the "Fighting Irishman," has been in the thick of every play on defense.

LEADS INTERFERENCE

But his good work doesn't stop on defense alone. He's one of the fastest men on the squad and on attack he pulls out of the line, leading the interference, and bowls over the opposition with reckless abandon.

Monahan is what might be called a triple threat lineman. Not only does he excel on offense and defense but he's a point getter too. After the first six games this season Monahan is the leading conversion expert in the country. He has the enviable record of converting 18 out of 20 points after touchdown and has kicked one field goal for a total of 21 points.

Incidentally it was Captain Monahan's field goal that sent the Red Raiders of Colgate back to Hamilton on the short end of a 10 to 7 score, one of the few times Kerr's men have been beaten in recent years.

Monahan, who weighs 203 pounds and stands nearly six feet in height, was changed from a tackle to a guard last year and has played a flashy game at that position ever since. This season he has compiled another enviable record, that of making 72 tackles in the six games he has been in so far.

GRADUATE OF KISKI

A graduate of Kiskiminetas Prep School at Saltsburg, Pa., where he was considered the outstanding prep school star in the country, Monahan is now a senior in the college of commerce and a member of the Kappa Sigma fraternity.

IOWA CITY, Ia., Nov. 15.—Four of Iowa's varsity backs were ailing today, but Coach Ossie Solem expects them to be ready for action against Ohio State on Nov. 24. The casualties, all afflicted with minor injuries, are Dick Crayne, John Hill, Oze Simmons and Sheldon Gardiner.

Tornadoes, Fires, Hurricanes, Floods, Epidemics, Make Record of Year

A history of the disasters in the United States in any year is written annually by the American Red Cross, according to Chairman John Barton Payne, commenting on the report for the year ending June 30, 1934, which has just been issued in Washington.

"Because of the charter provision which places upon the Red Cross the responsibility for disaster relief, our chapter and staff workers are notified of all calamities of storm and fire and flood," he continued. "The emergency period may prove to be brief, in cases where the victims have their own resources to draw on. While it lasts, however, whether it brings the immediate need of food, clothing and shelter for the homeless, or entails a program of investigation and rehabilitation, the Red Cross is the official director of all relief."

A great variation in type, and a wide geographical distribution, characterize the 103 disasters reported last year. Tornadoes, hurricanes, hailstorms and other storms made up almost one half of the total. Especially numerous were the tropical storms which swept in from the sea to the Atlantic and Gulf Coast region. There were 21 storms of this type, establishing a new record for frequency.

Next in number to storms were disasters of fire, the report shows. Red Cross aid was given following 25 fires in the United States and in insular possessions. The most spectacular was the Chicago stockyard fire, where Red Cross workers arrived shortly after the fire started, administering relief until the emergency period passed, giving first aid to about 1,000 persons.

Floods caused serious damage in some sections, 17 calling for Red Cross relief. Three epidemics of malaria and typhoid fever, A school bus wreck was one of the year's tragedies for which Red Cross funds were needed for relief and rehabilitation.

"Technique acquired by the Red Cross in these disasters and the hundreds of others we have handled is at the service of the public," Chairman Payne said. "It makes this possible the disaster relief service has issued a manual containing instructions for chapters interested in advance preparations for emergencies. Disaster institutes, were held last year. 28 strategic locations, to enable Red Cross and civic workers to formulate plans for possible disaster emergencies in their communities."

Support of the disaster relief activities of the Red Cross comes from the annual roll call held each year from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day.

The Novelist's Plot

A highly distinguished novelist frequently found himself traveling in a train with two very talkative women. Having recognized him from his published portraits, they opened fire on him in regard to his novels, praising them in a manner which was unendurable to the sensitive author. Presently the train entered the tunnel, and in the darkness the novelist raised the back of his hand to his lips and kissed it resoundingly. When light returned he found the two women regarding each other in icy silence. Addressing them with great suavely, he said: "Ah, ladies, the one great regret of my life will be that I shall never know which of you it was that kissed me!"—Toronto Globe.

Jury Ignores Hint of Murder in Bern Death

Dearest Paul,
Unfatedly, this is the only way to make good the frightful wrong I have done you and to wipe out my abject humiliation. I love you.
Paul
You understand that last night was only a comedy.

Testimony hinting at the possibility of murder in the mysterious death of Paul Bern, former husband of Jean Harlow, blonde movie actress, has been ignored by a Los Angeles grand jury examining the costs of investigating the film executive's death during its probe of District Attorney Burton Fitts, recently indicted for perjury. Suggestion of violence in the death of Bern, which had been pronounced a suicide in 1932, was made in testimony given to the 1932 grand jury by Earl Davis, Bern's gardener. This layout shows Miss Harlow with her stepfather, Mar to Bello, whom Davis declared warned him he "talked too much," and the suicide note supposedly written by Bern, inset.

Sues Kearns in Paternity Case

Jack Kearns, left, former manager of Jack Dempsey, is snapped in Los Angeles court where he appeared to face charges brought by Miss Elizabeth Williams, right, that he is the alleged father of her eight-year-old daughter, Helen McKernan, shown with her. Miss Williams asks that Kearns be compelled to support the child.

SCIOTO-TWP SCHOOL NOTES

The seventh grade English class have tried their ability as poetry writers. The first group were about "Hallowe'en" and the next group on "Books." Some of the best ones were written by Evan Dean, Virgil Devors, Warren Beers, and Erma Morrison.

The eighth grade English class is making book-posters. Anna Louise Bandy and Virginia Hoskins made the best posters of paper. Peter Tomlinson made his on the blackboard in free-hand drawing.

The seventh and eighth grade room has had a perfect attendance record for the week of Nov. 5th to 9th. This is the first perfect week's attendance of the school.

The seventh grade has elected class officers. Only honor students hold office. The following were elected: Evan Dean, president; Warren Beers, vice-president; Virginia Hill, secretary; Virgil Tuxell, treasurer; Gardner Beatty, sergeant-at-arms.

The seventh grade English class gave a "Book-Week" program on Friday. The fifth, sixth and eighth grade pupils and teachers were guests of the occasion. The following program was given:

Reading of four original poems by writers; Roll call, with "Book Quotations" for responses; Play, "King Book of Reading Castle"; King, Warren Beers; First Book, Gardner Beatty; Second Book, Evan Dean; Third Book, Nelson Justice; Fourth Book, Virgil Tuxell; Knight of Title Page, Virgil Devors; Lady Copyright, Doris Hill; Herald, Contents, Erma Morrison; Princess Illustration, Virginia Hill; Lady Introduction, Frances Hettinger; Lady Index, Jean Neal.

The following stories were pageanted by other members of the class, "Aladdin's Lamp," "Robinson Crusoe," "King Arthur" and "Knight of Round Table," and "William Tell."

The first year French class spent one period giving and working mental arithmetic problems. All numbers were given in French so the pupils had to know the pronunciation of their numbers.

The sophomore English class has started studying "Silas Marner" in English. They are also working on the four fundamentals of story writing.

The first Latin club meeting was held Oct. 25th. The following officers were elected: Consula, Faye McKnight and Emerson Sheets, Question-William Beavers.

CATTLE FEEDERS PLAN MEETINGS

A series of three cattle feeders meetings have been arranged for cattle feeders of Pickaway and adjoining counties, for the coming winter.

The first meeting will deal with cattle feeding as a business, trends and new developments in cattle feeding and the cattle feeder outlook for the coming season.

The second meeting will deal with getting cattle started on grain rations, economical rations and finishing for the market.

The third and final meeting will take up marketing problems. A tour and feeder banquet will be held in connection with the last meeting.

ALL ARE WELCOME

Anyone interested in cattle feeding or beef production is welcome to attend these meetings. There is no fee charged or no obligation to any individual or organization, so if you are in the cattle business, why not take advantage of the opportunity to learn all you can about the prospects for a profitable season.

The first of these meetings will be held Tuesday evening, Nov. 26, in the Farm Bureau home, starting at 7:30. Dates and speakers for the other meetings will be announced later.

Dr. Gay, head of the department of animal husbandry and L. F. McCann, extension specialist in beef cattle of the Ohio State university have been secured to give the talks at the opening meeting. Dr. Gay's topic will be "Invisible Profits in the Cattle Feeding Business." Prof. McCann's topic will be, "Recent Trends and Developments in the Cattle Industry."

WATCH KIDNEYS SAME AS BOWELS

Wash Out Your 79,200 Feet of Kidney Tubes

Your bowels contain only 27 feet of intestines, yet the kidneys contain nearly 10 million tiny tubes or filters which would measure 79,200 feet if laid end to end. Therefore, it is just as important to watch the kidneys as the bowels. Kidneys are working all the time and are Nature's chief way of taking the acids and poisonous waste out of the blood.

Healthy persons pass 3 pints a day thru the bladder which contains nearly 4 pounds of waste matter. If you pass less than this amount, your 79,200 feet of kidney tubes may be clogged with poisonous waste. This is the danger signal and may be the beginning of serious backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbar, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

Kidneys should be watched closely and need cleaning out the same as bowels. Ask your dealer for DOAN'S PILLS, an old prescription, which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out your 79,200 feet of kidney tubes.

But don't take chances with strong drugs and so-called "kidney cures" which claim to fix you up in 15 minutes. Your common sense will tell you that this is impossible. Treatments of this nature may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS, the old reliable relief that contains no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your drugist.

My Tribute to the TEACHERS of TODAY

J. W. CRABTREE,
Secretary of the National Education Association

In the crisis of the seventies, I was amazed, as a boy, at the sacrifices made by the pioneer teacher of that day. Since then, I have observed that whether in time of famine, or in time of plenty, the teacher has lived not for self but for the children and the community. I have noticed that the selfish man or woman seldom remains long in the profession.

When the terrible days of the World War came upon us, who led in food conservation? Who led in the sale of Liberty Bonds? Who led in collecting food, clothing and funds for the Red Cross? Who kept the schools going, whether funds were available or not? And what of the teachers of today? They are serving in a worse crisis than ever before. Their responsibility is greater. Environment is more destructive in its effect on children. The teacher load is almost doubled. In spite of all this the teacher is again leading in welfare activities. There may be a delay in pay—a month or six months—or the pay may be cut off for the year, yet the work of the school goes on!

Who is it that removes gloom from the lives of children who come from homes filled with sorrow and suffering because of the depression? Who is it that inspires children with courage and ambition? Who teaches them to look forward to better days? Who is it that is saving civilization in these dark hours?

All honor, therefore, to the teacher of today! Your courage and your devotion stand out as safeguards of our Democracy and as the hope of the nation!

Brands For Tires

FROM out of the relentless onslaught of automobile-part thieves upon the long-suffering owners of motor cars has come a proposal to "brand" automobile tires in an effort to remove at least one item from the potential booty of the thieves. The idea would be to burn the name of the owner or some other distinguishing mark into the outer covering of the tire with an electric pencil in the hope that many thieves, particularly the smaller fry, would be dissuaded from taking tires that may be so readily identified.

In the West in the days of cattle rustlers, however, a brand was not always a satisfactory deterrent, for the rustlers merely mutilated the brand or converted it into another they might claim for their own. (At least that's what we have always understood from the movies). Modern petty thieves are nothing if not as accomplished in the tricks of their trade as the old timers were, and probably it would be simple enough to overcome so primary a device as a tire brand. It would, in fact, doubtless serve only as a challenge to the ingenuity of the fraternity, spurring its bolder members on to further depredations in their particular field.

There are ways and ways of halting the thefts of automobile parts. But the best way is the simple process of working backward through the receivers of the goods, who resell tires and all manner of parts to car owners, sometimes back to the victims themselves. The old-fashioned remedies of lock and key in the first instance, penalty for the "fence" in the second and punishment, thirdly, for the thieves would accomplish more in a day than all the brands that might be applied in a month.

A depression isn't over until those who think it wicked to beat your debts are again a majority.

Aftermath

FOR an idea of how vast the machinery of campaigning for election to public office in New York may be, two advertisements that appeared side by side in the New York newspapers on the day following the election are illuminating. Both were the advertisement of office furniture concerns, and both advertised for sale the furniture in use in the late several campaign headquarters.

From the headquarters of Messrs. Moses, Taylor, McGoldrick and the Liberal party, one Regan furniture concern offered "500 executive and commercial desks—100 directors and office tables—1,250 leather and wood chairs—leather settees and club chairs—steel filing equipment." From New York and New Jersey Democratic headquarters, one Whaley's offered a similar assortment. Mr. Regan's wares had been used "less than 30 days." We don't know what any of it brought.

You haven't heard scorn at its worst until you hear a woman say: "She's old!"

Nature gives you a hint. The fatter you get the harder it is to get close to the table.

But if you kill anybody who criticizes you, you're just a murderer instead of a dictator.

Ignorance must have some value. It is impossible to shake convictions that are based on it.

CAROLINE by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

SYNOPSIS
The Philip Rutledges and Henry Dunsworths have been enemies for years, but love sometimes laughs at feuds, so Howard Dunsworth becomes engaged to lovely Caroline Rutledge despite their parents' opposition. Then Henry ruins Philip in business. This changes everything. "If we marry, my father will cut me off, and if I know you, it wouldn't please you any more to be poor than it would me," Howard tells Caroline. Disappointed that money should mean so much to Howard, Caroline breaks their engagement. Another crushing blow falls when Philip tells Caroline and her mother, Alva, that he has a "selish woman" who must vacate "Hawthorn," their lovely home, and live in a poorer section of town. Caroline had never attributed strength to her mother, but she expected her to carry through gracefully instead of giving away her home to a poor man. Caroline is doubly disappointed when her father, whom she thought capable of meeting any emergency, accepts defeat. Returning from a ride, Caroline learns that Howard telephoned, but she refuses to call him, saying, "Howard will have to come back to me unasked." Mrs. Rutledge a change of heart where Howard is concerned. "Beggars cannot be choosers," she reminds Caroline. Howard takes a trip to California. Caroline goes with her father to look over their future home and her heart sinks at the sight of it. A slatternly woman bears down upon them from the porch.

CHAPTER IX
Mr. Rutledge had never seen the woman before. He was startled to learn that she recognized him. For a moment her sudden and unexpected verbal assault dazed him, left him without words to answer her. "So you've come in person, Mister Rutledge, to see what your high and mighty inflexible can do to poor folks who ain't got no come back agin ye, have ye? Well, it's a fine sight ye'll be seein'—a poor family turned out into the street on yer say-so! But just you..."

"Wait!" Mr. Rutledge commanded sharply. "Are you Mrs. Gamis?"

"Would ye be expectin' some one else to know who ye be?" the woman retorted.

"Then just a moment, please," Philip Rutledge resumed in a tone that silenced her. "Your husband was given money for a month's rent elsewhere. He agreed to be out of this house by noon today. There has been no unjust influence used to dispossess you. I should like to speak to Mr. Gamis," he added coldly.

The woman's expression underwent a swift change; a new anger replaced the old. "Oh, an' ye should," she mocked. "An' so'd be I. The good for nothin' loafin'!"

"Is he about?" Mr. Rutledge broke in hastily.

"Is he about?" the woman repeated with a grim laugh. "Yes, I guess he's about by this time—just about under the table down at Smokey Joe's. The onery..."

"Never mind," again Mr. Rutledge cut her off. "Have you rented another place?"

"I've rented a while in the McClung's alley woodshed," she said dejectedly.

Mr. Rutledge took out his billfold. From it he extracted a banknote and gave it to her. "It is important to me to have possession of the house immediately," he said. "Have you engaged a moving van?"

The woman looked at the bill and at the piles of furniture on the porch and in the front yard, among which a number of ragged children were playing.

"Thank you, mister," she said, and Caroline, watching her, caught the glint of a tear in her eyes. "I can get one in a bit."

"We would like to go inside," he said abruptly.

"Come right ahead," the woman invited, all her ill-feeling dissipated.

Caroline stepped forward to cross the threshold. She felt as though they were driving out of the house people to whom it was home while it would be an affliction to her and her parents to live there.

"It's a nice house," Mrs. Gamis said wistfully. "I hate to be leavin' it."

"Would you go up, my dear? I shouldn't know what would be wanted to furnish this."

Caroline understood. Already he had seen enough of the house. His defeat served to bolster up her own will power. Deliberately she kept herself from thinking of the ugliness and dirt about her and made required to make the rooms as comfortable and attractive as possible.

When they were leaving she said: "I hope you will find another nice house, Mrs. Gamis."

Alone with her father in the car she burst out: "Is this absolutely necessary, Father? It's a shame to put that family out. Couldn't we get an apartment or rent a small house in a better neighborhood?"

Mr. Rutledge answered wearily: "Do you think I didn't go over all that before giving into this? I tell you, Caroline, my credit is gone, or it will be shortly. I can't pay rent. What we get from the sale at Hawthorn must be used to settle old debts. They amount to a small fortune. We've only a little to live on. And the Gamises are seven months behind in their rent; I couldn't afford to let them stay on in any event."

"But won't it be harder for you to re-establish yourself in the business world if you start from... from South Town?" Caroline ventured.

"I suppose so," he agreed listlessly.

"But Father, you know Mother and I would let you sell our jewels!"

A short, broken laugh answered her. "The best of your mother's things, and yours too, were in the bank vault. I'm afraid, unless you wish me to repudiate our just debts, they'll never come back to you. You see, Caroline, when this thing struck me I had my lawyer and an accountant straighten things out for me. Yesterday morning they laid the cards on the table. Before I came home to you and your mother it was definitely settled—this house, the cars, everything. I am cleaned out, my dear. All I had left was friends, and I know that not one of them has money to lend. I'm afraid we'll have to face it as it is, however bad it may be."

Caroline choked down the lump in her throat. "Right-o," she said simply. They talked no more of their troubles. And when Mrs. Rutledge asked Caroline, in a strained, apprehensive tone, what the house on Edge Street was like Caroline told her that it was terrible but they were lucky to have it, and she for one meant to make the most of it.

"You know, Mother," she added dreamily, "it's an adventure, this getting a slant at life from an angle so new to us. After all, what were we here at Hawthorn House? In

Clothes may not make the "man of the house" but they certainly do a lot toward brightening his wife's outlook on life. Take this pretty frock for instance; even its frills are on the up and up, placed as they are to emphasize the flatness of the young, round neckline and pert sleeves. The bodice lays claim to style importance in its well-cut front panel, and the skirt is simply trimmed with a convenient patch pocket. Any dainty cotton fabric, either figured or plain, would look well made up in this design. If you choose a bright coral monotone, for example, you might make the frills of white for interesting contrast.

Pattern 9194 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards 36 inch fabric.

What youngster is not fascinated by a Mammy or Pickaninny doll? Here is a chance to make them, and dress them gayly. The dolls are easy to do, and the clothes simple to sew. The hair is made of wool, so embroidered that it looks curly as it should. Delight some youngster at Christmas with either one or both of these gay dolls!

In pattern 5247 you will find a transfer pattern for a doll about 14 inches high; a pattern for making the clothes of the Mammy and Pickaninny; material requirements and directions for making doll, clothes and haircomb.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Circleville Herald Household Arts Dept., 124 W. Main St., Circleville, O.

Now Is the Time to Avoid Colds

Authority Gives Some Health Rules to Follow During This Season of Changeable Weather; Suggests Treatment, Too

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

WITHIN A SHORT time the season for colds will be here. Though colds are prevalent at all times of the year they are more prone to occur during cold, changeable and inclement weather.

A word of warning and advice at this time may be of value in avoiding this annoying and often times serious infection.

The actual cause of the common cold has never been discovered. Yet many simple rules of hygiene are sufficient to guard against the frequent taking of a cold. In most instances colds can be traced to neglect of the health of the body. Everyone should be familiar with certain fundamentals that aid in preventing them.

Follow These Health Rules

A well known health authority recently announced some simple rules for avoiding colds. He advises everyone to keep fit by eating a well balanced diet which should include leafy vegetables, fruits and salads and at least a quart of milk every day.

In addition to the diet, he says: "Keep far away from persons who have colds; keep your mouth shut; breathe through your nose; keep good hours; sleep eight of them every night; keep clean; take a bath every day; keep comfortable; dress according to the weather; keep your house and your office at a temperature of between 68 and 70 degrees."

The rest of the rules advise moderate exercise such as walking; keeping the house well aired and properly ventilated; avoiding dependence on patent medicines; getting to bed promptly when you have a cold, and calling the family doctor at once. I strongly advise this, particularly if any fever is present.

Treatment for a Cold

At the onset of a cold beneficial results are often obtained by taking a hot bath or foot bath for fifteen minutes. Wrap yourself in a cotton blanket and go to bed. Though it is imperative to keep the body warm, it is equally important to have plenty of fresh air in the room.

Bear in mind that some persons like cold more easily than others. This can be explained by the difference in body resistance. The ability of the body to resist a cold is lowered by chilling, loss of sleep, inadequate food and continued exposure to the germs of the infection.

Never neglect a cold. It is a menace to the health of the community as well as to the afflicted individual. Repeated colds are a sign of lowered resistance. They may be the forerunners of a more serious disease, such as bronchitis or pneumonia.

My advice to all my readers is to follow carefully the rules outlined. Early attention and care of a cold are imperative. They will hasten recovery and eliminate the danger of serious complications.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Extended public hearing were held on the measure last Congress, and Costigan intends forcing a floor vote on the issue. Samuel Augustus Maverick, grandfather of Maury Maverick, one of the new Democratic Congressmen, was a Representative of the Republic of Texas before the Lone Star State joined the Union. He escaped death at the Alamo by being chosen as representative of the defenders to the state convention which declared independence from Mexico. His grandson, serving in France with the 28th Infantry of the regular army, was severely wounded in action, and awarded the Purple Heart medal.

The eighth grade has completed the Oct.-Nov. series of the Columbian Achievement Test in Mathematics, English, Science, Reading, and History. Pupils making highest scores in each subject will be announced next week.

The Sophomore Class has been studying "Silas Marner" in English.

Mary Elizabeth Miller entertained the Sophomore Class to a delightful Halloween party at her home Friday night, October 26.

The following sophomores have a G average or above for the last six weeks: Jessie Fern Floyd, Mary Martin, Emerson Reid, John Peters, Mary Elizabeth Miller, Jane Lindsay, Ruth Courtright, Walter Greg, Leo Berger, Lucille Hedges, Jessie Tustin, Grace Tiner, Bessie Maupin, Harold Cook, Wilbur Naff, Melvin R. Withburn, Richard Toole, Iva Jean Good.

The Home Economics class of Ashville High School are planning to give a tea in honor of the mothers on Thursday afternoon, Nov. 15, 1934.

Mrs. Cartwright of the State Department of Health spent Monday of last week talking health to the Ashville pupils and advising them upon personal problems.

Delano Younklin had the misfortune to push his thumb against the circular saw in the manual training room last Friday.

Two pupils have withdrawn from the Ashville schools during the past week. Hazel Hoffman, eighth grade went to Reynoldsburg and Zola Ross, freshman, returned to Waterloo. However, we have had two new students to take their places. Elmer Morrow, freshman, and his brother Robert, a junior.

William Toole installed a call bell in the manual training room last week. Those classes should change more promptly hereafter.

Last week in the fourth grade we made health notes. They tell us that milk is our best food.

Huey's Game Fails

Abe Mickal

Assertedly declining to participate in the burlesque, Abe Mickal, above, crack halfback of the Louisiana State university, at Baton Rouge, failed to "take his seat" in the Louisiana state senate, following his "election" to the legislature at a farce citizens' meeting engineered by Senator Huey (Kingfish) Long practices last week. Some thirty boys and 15 girls reported for the first practice, all eager and anxious to make the squad. This week the boys squad will be divided into two groups and Mr. Murphy will again handle the reserves as he has done in the past.

The following schedule has been arranged for the coming season:

Unemployed Insurance Is Planned by President

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—President Roosevelt intends to ask congress to enact legislation providing unemployment insurance.

He told a gathering of members of his economic security committee this much. He also advised them that he intended introducing in the new congress a general program of social protection legislation. He did not say what he would ask beyond unemployment insurance.

The president intends to have the job insurance system financed through contributions, and not taxes.

"We must not allow this type of insurance to become a dole; it is not charity," he said.

The president's address was an informal one. It came as the committee and its advisory body, appointed less than a week ago, gathered before his desk after a day of discussion.

SECURITY FOR AGED

Mr. Roosevelt also indicated in his informal talk that in time, not necessarily in the impending session of congress, he would seek to provide some sort of security for the needy aged.

At the same time, the president pointed out that he and his administration could not work miracles. He explained that he could only go so far and said:

"On some points it is possible to be definite.

"Unemployment insurance will be in the program—

"I do not know whether this is the time for any federal legislation on old age security—but I hope that in time we may be able to provide security for the aged, a sound and a uniform system which will provide true security."

Mr. Roosevelt stressed the necessity of providing for the general good rather than for the individual individually in his program. He explained:

"In developing each component part of the broad program for economic security, we must not lose sight of the fact that there can be no security for the individual in the midst of general insecurity.

"Our first task is to get the economic system to function so that there will be a greater general security. Everything that we do with intent to increase the security of the individual will, I am confident, be a stimulus to recovery.

"At this time we are deciding on long-time objectives. We are developing a plan of administration which can be fitted the various parts of the security program when it is timely to do so. We cannot work miracles or solve all our problems at once. What we can do is to lay a sound foundation on which we can build a structure to give a greater measure of safety and happiness to the individual than any we have ever known.

"In this task you can greatly help."

Measurements Count

"Much depends on small measurements," said Hi Ho, the sage of Chinatown. "Your high hat conveys an impression of dignity. Should you increase the height by an inch a month it would soon become ridiculous."

DRUGS?

Don't make the mistake of giving even a 14-year old boy strong medicines meant for adults.

Here is the proper treatment for the child who has grown sluggish.

Proof

Boys and girls who have reached their "teens" are not ready to be given powerful drugs!

It is not wise to give laxatives of adult strength to a child, just because you give them less frequently or in less amounts. Stomach upsets and bowel troubles of growing children can often be traced to this single mistake.

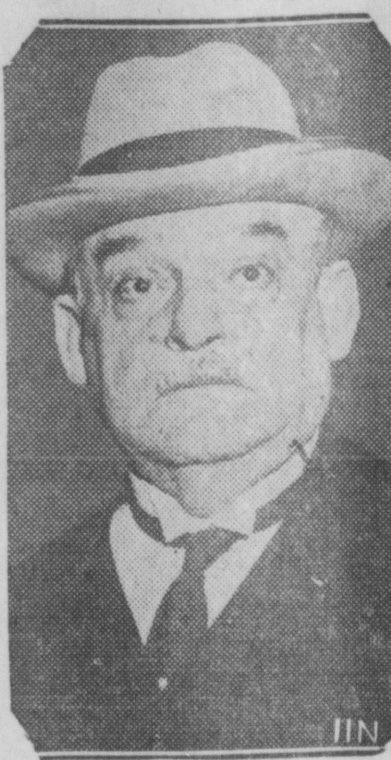

For Safer Relief

of constipation in children, do this: Stop all use of mineral drugs, whether they are salts, pills, tablets, or "candy" form. Even once a month is too often to give any child a cathartic strong enough for adults.

Use a liquid laxative containing senna (a natural laxative). California Syrup of Figs has the right amount for children's use, and this rich, fruity syrup does not harm or upset a child's system.

When you change to pure California Syrup of Figs instead of harsh medicines, you risk no more violence to your child's appetite, digestion, and general physical condition. You'll have a safer, more satisfactory result. Those little upsets and complaints just disappear as a rule when this treatment is followed.

Financial Dictator?

Emile Franqui

Appointment of Emile Franqui, above, as financial dictator of Belgium to straighten out the nation's affairs was considered likely in political circles on the eve of the resignation of Premier Charles de Broqueville and his cabinet. Franqui served as finance dictator in 1926 when he stabilized the franc.

the bank that "the law's coming." The gang hurriedly piled out of the bank and rushed to their automobile standing nearby. They sped out of town toward the east, witness said.

Sheriff Bruce Pratt of Wood-co, immediately notified the authorities at Findley and Toledo and a widespread search was started throughout this area.

A hasty checkup disclosed that the bandits obtained no loot in their foray. Damages to the bank by the nitroglycerine blasts, however, were expected to amount to several thousand dollars.

STATE HUNTING

November 25, on coon, January 15 and on opossum February 1.

State health officials warned hunters of the danger of contracting tularemia or "rabbit fever" from handling the rabbits. They suggested that the hunters wear rubber gloves when cleaning the animals.

Last minute appeals to hunters to protect hen pheasants, farm livestock and their own lives were broadcast by radio by conservation department officials. Hunters also were urged to obtain permission from farm owners before shooting on private land.

Constitution of Canada

The constitution of the Dominion of Canada went into effect July 1, 1867. The confederation, as inaugurated in 1867, consisted only of the four provinces of Ontario (Upper Canada), Quebec (Lower Canada), Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. Provision was made, however, for the admission of other areas. The provinces now number nine, Prince Edward Island, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia having been added.

SEEN NEAR HOME

The little kindergarten pupil was last seen alive by a neighbor as she was within two blocks of her suburban home returning from school. She was walking, dressed in a plain blue and white dress, swinging her pink lunch basket in one hand, and carrying school materials in the other.

That was just eight weeks to the day before her body was identified after it had been discovered in a shallow grave in a remote cornfield just out of Nashville.

The skull had been crushed in two places with a hammer or similar blunt instrument. A large rag, evidently used as a gag when the girl was murdered, was removed from the mouth. Several inches of loose dirt concealed the body.

The small body was found by negro workmen Tuesday and was identified by Dr. Leonard F. Fague, a dentist, who had filled an upper right molar tooth of the girl a short time before she disappeared, and by Dr. Herman Spitz, a pathologist and acting coroner's physician, yesterday.

On September 19, the day Dorothy Ann disappeared, an army of searchers scoured the neighborhood and found a large blot in the center of a street near the Distelhurst home. It was later analyzed as blood and traces of it were found for a distance of about fifty feet, giving rise to the theory she had been struck by a car. She had to cross two railroad tracks to reach her home and some believed she had been hit by a train.

SOUGHT BROTHER

A few days later it was disclosed that the girl's half brother, A. E. Distelhurst, Jr., had left home after a quarrel, and the theory arose that he had abducted the girl for revenge. He was located near Jacksonville, Fla., October 24, and questioned at length by federal agents who declared they were satisfied the 18-year-old boy knew nothing about his sister's disappearance. He has since returned home.

HIGHWAY PROGRAM RELATED BY ICKES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—A great trans-continental highway system was envisioned today by Secretary of Interior Ickes as part of a long-term public employment program, designed to relieve the nation of the threat of doles. The idea was set forth in an article in the current issue of the magazine, "Today."

For immediate employment, Ickes said a new public works program should concentrate on rural electrification and grade-crossing elimination. These, with similar projects, that can be launched at once and completed in a few months, were suggested by Ickes as the immediate need.

Scarlet Wave Working Overtime For 'Wolves'

COLUMBUS, Nov. 15.—Despite the fact that Ohio State seems to be leading the crest this season and Michigan seems to be in the lead, Coach Francis Schmidt of the Buckeyes is taking nothing for granted.

He is working his charges overtime this week in preparation for the homecoming struggle now scheduled for Saturday.

From all appearances early in the week Schmidt may have his full strength available for the first time this season to throw against Michigan. Fleetfooted Jack Smith, after a two weeks' rest seems to be in condition to go again at full speed and probably will start opposite Dick Heekin. State's captain for all-America football honors, Trevor Rees, regular end, who was kept out of the Chicago game, also is in shape and will be ready to start Saturday.

EXPECTS TO SEE RENNER

Schmidt is spending a greater part of the time this week on defense against passes. He fully expects Bill Renner, Michigan's star passer, to start Saturday, although Renner has been suffering an injured ankle in pre-season practice. Michigan has one good game in its system and it probably will come out against us," is Schmidt's opinion.

While the new Ohio mentor is spending considerable time on defense he is not letting his offense slip. Ohio has been able more or less to coast through the last three games and hasn't been compelled to show any of its new tricks. Schmidt is taking them all out of the bag this week and is prepared to literally "shoot the works."

Elaborate preparations are being made by Ohio State athletic officials to take care of the mammoth crowd which bids fair to be the largest to witness a game here since 1930. It was announced today that no temporary seats would be erected even if the supply of regular seats are all sold. By Monday afternoon of this week less than 12,000 tickets were available.

SPECIAL TRAINS COME

Special trains will pull into Columbus from Ann Arbor, Detroit, Toledo, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Dayton, Hamilton, and St. Louis. Homecoming festivities started Monday evening and will reach a climax Friday night when a huge bon fire will be lighted at the north end of the stadium. It is expected that close to 20,000 persons will attend this rally.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—Apparently none the worse for his injuries, Jay Berwanger, star Chicago back, was named today as a certain starter against the Minnesota eleven Saturday.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Nov. 15.

Their oft-repeated on the home grounds, Purdue's Intercollegiate leave today for the intercollegiate game with Fordham at New York City Saturday. The same lineup that started against Iowa last Saturday will be used against the eastern eleven, it was indicated by Coach Noble Kizer in the practice session last evening.

BUCKEYE CAPTAIN OUTSTANDING STAR

COLUMBUS, Nov. 15.—When the gridiron critics get their heads together in a few weeks to select all-America players, an Ohio State lad will come in for serious consideration.

He is Captain Regis Monahan, a guard on the Scarlet forward wall, the same wall that has held the running attack of all opponents to small yardage this fall. And Monahan, known on the Ohio campus as the "Fighting Irishman," has been in the thick of every play on defense.

LEADS INTERFERENCE

But his good work doesn't stop on defense alone. He's one of the fastest men on the squad and on attack he pulls out of the line, leading the interference, and bowls over the opposition with reckless abandon.

Monahan is what might be called a triple threat lineman. Not only does he excel on offense and defense but he's a punter, too. After the first six games this season Monahan is the leading punter in the country. He has the enviable record of converting 18 out of 20 points after touchdowns and has kicked one field goal for a total of 21 points.

Incidentally it was Captain Monahan's field goal that sent the Red Raiders of Colgate back to Hamilton on the short end of a 10 to 7 score, one of the few times Kerr's men have been beaten in recent years.

Monahan, who weighs 200 pounds and stands nearly six feet in height, was changed from a tackle to a guard last year and has tackled a guard last year and has tackled a guard last year and has tackled a guard last year.

GRADUATE OF KISKI

A graduate of Kiskiminetus Prep School at Saltsburg, Pa., where he was considered the outstanding prep school star in the country, Monahan is now a senior in the college of commerce and a member of the Kappa Sigma fraternity.

IOWA CITY, Ia., Nov. 15.

Four of Iowa's varsity backs were ailing today, but Coach Ossie Solten experts them to be ready for action against Ohio State of Nov. 24. The casualties, all afflicted with minor injuries, are Dick Cravens, John Hill, Ole Simmons and Sheldon Gardiner.

RED CROSS RELIEF GIVEN TO VICTIMS IN 103 DISASTERS

Tornadoes, Fires, Hurricanes, Floods, Epidemics, Make Record of Year

A history of the disasters in the United States in any year is written annually by the American Red Cross, according to Chairman John Barton Payne, commenting on the report for the year ending June 30, 1934, which has just been issued in Washington.

"Because of the charter provision which places upon the Red Cross the responsibility for disaster relief, our chapter and staff workers are notified of all calamities of storm and fire and flood," he continued. "The emergency period may prove to be brief, in cases where the victims have their own resources to draw on. While it lasts, however, whether it brings the immediate need of food, clothing and shelter for the homeless, or entails a program of investigation and rehabilitation, the Red Cross is the official director of all relief."

A great variation in type, and a wide geographical distribution, characterize the 103 disasters reported last year. Tornadoes, hurricanes, hailstorms and other storms made up almost one half of the total. Especially numerous were the tropical storms which swept in from the sea to the Atlantic and Gulf Coast region. There were 21 storms of this type, establishing a new record for frequency.

Next in number to storms were disasters of fire, the report shows. Red Cross aid was given following 25 fires in the United States and in insular possessions. The most spectacular was the Chicago stockyards fire, where Red Cross workers arrived shortly after the fire started, administering relief until the emergency period passed, giving first aid to about 1,000 persons.

Floods caused serious damage in some sections, 17 calling for Red Cross relief. Three epidemics of malaria and typhoid fever. A school bus wreck was one of the year's tragedies for which Red Cross funds were needed for relief and rehabilitation.

"Technique acquired by the Red Cross in these disasters and the hundreds of others we have handled is at the service of the public," Chairman Payne said. "To make this possible the disaster relief service has issued a manual containing instructions for chapters, interested in advance preparations for emergencies. Disaster institutes, were held last year in 28 strategic locations, to enable Red Cross and civic workers to formulate plans for possible disaster emergencies in their communities."

Support of the disaster relief activities of the Red Cross comes from the annual roll call held each year from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day.

The Novelist's Plot

A highly distinguished novelist frequently found himself traveling in a train with two very talkative women. Having recognized him from his published portraits, they opened fire on him in regard to his novels, praising them in a manner which was unendurable to the sensitive author. Presently the train entered the tunnel, and in the darkness the novelist raised the back of his hand to his lips and kissed it resoundingly. When light returned he found the two women regarding each other in icy silence. Addressing them with great suavity, he said: "Ah, ladies, the one great regret of my life will be that I shall never know which of you it was that kissed me!"—Toronto Globe.

SCIOTO-TWP SCHOOL NOTES

The seventh grade English class have tried their ability as poetry writers. The first group were about "Hallowe'en" and the next group on "Books." Some of the best ones were written by Evan Dean, Virgil Devors, Warren Beers, and Erma Morrison.

The eighth grade English class is making book-posters. Anna Louise Bandy and Virginia Hoskins made the best posters of paper. Peter Tomlinson made his on the blackboard in free-hand drawing.

The seventh and eighth grade room has had a perfect attendance record for the week of Nov. 5th to 9th. This is the first perfect week's attendance of the school.

The seventh grade has elected class officers. Only honor students hold office. The following were elected: Evan Dean, president; Warren Beers, secretary; Virgil Devors, treasurer; Gardner Beatty, sergeant-at-arms.

The seventh grade English class gave a "Book-Week" program on Friday. The fifth, sixth and eighth grade pupils and teachers were guests of the occasion. The following program was given:

Reading of four original poems by writers: Roll call, with "Book Quotations" for responses; Play, "King Book of Reading Castle"; King, Warren Beers; First Book, Gardner Beatty; Second Book, Evan Dean; Third Book, Nelson Justice; Fourth Book, Virgil Devors; Knight of Title Page, Virgil Devors; Lady Copyright, Doris Hill; Herald Contents, Erma Morrison; Princess Illustration, Virginia Hill; Lady Introduction, Frances Heltinger; Lady Index, Jean Neal.

The following stories were pageanted by other members of the class, "Aladdin's Lamp," "Robinson Crusoe," "King Arthur," and "Knight of Round Table," and "William Tell."

The first year French class spent one period giving and working mental arithmetic problems. All numbers were given in French so the pupils had to know the pronunciation of their numbers.

The sophomore English class has started studying "Silas Marner" in English. They are also working on the four fundamentals of story writing.

The first Latin club meeting was held Oct. 25th. The following officers were elected: Consuls—Faye McKnight and Emerson Sheets, Question—William Beavers.

Consul-Betty Neal

A program committee is to be chosen for each month. For November Raymond Hott, Virgil Beavers, Marjorie Younkin and Dorothy Seymour are on the program committee. The social committee, which will function all year consists of: Lillie Margaret Wilson, John Henson, Nint Garrett, and Marvin Dountz, Gale Carfrey, Dorothy Beavers and Junior Borer were chosen to draw up a suitable constitution. We chose "Socitas Latina" for the name of our Club.

In the first year Latin class we have started a vocabulary contest. Lillie Margaret Wilson and Louise Melvin were elected captains and score keepers for the two sides—aves rubrae and aves caeruleae, meaning the red birds and the blue birds.

We have on display in the typing room several letters of each type of letter used in ordinary business. A committee consisting of Betty Fuller, Margaret Rodgers and Jane Lamb selected the letters from the class and arranged the display.

CATTLE FEEDERS PLAN MEETINGS

A series of three cattle feeders meetings have been arranged for cattle feeders of Pickaway and adjoining counties, for the coming winter.

The first meeting will deal with cattle feeding as a business, trends and new developments in cattle feeding and the cattle feeder outlook for the coming season.

The second meeting will deal with getting cattle started on grain rations, economical rations and finishing for the market.

The third and final meeting will take up marketing problems. A tour and survey program will be held in connection with the last meeting.

ALL ARE WELCOME

Anyone interested in cattle feeding or beef production is welcome to attend these meetings. There is no fee charged or no obligation to any individual or organization, so if you are in the cattle business, why not take advantage of the opportunity to learn all you can about the prospects for a profitable season.

The first of these meetings will be held Tuesday evening, Nov. 20, in the Farm Bureau home, starting at 7:30. Dates and speakers for the other meetings will be announced later.

Dr. Gay, head of the department of animal husbandry and L. F. McCann, extension specialist in beef cattle of the Ohio State university have been secured to give the talks at the opening meeting. Dr. Gay's topic will be "Invisible Profits in the Cattle Feeding Business." Prof. McCann's topic will be "Recent Trends and Developments in the Cattle Industry."

WATCH KIDNEYS SAME AS BOWELS

Wash Out Your 79,200 Feet of Kidney Tubes

Your bowels contain only 27 feet of intestines, yet the kidneys contain nearly 10 million tiny tubes or filters which would measure 79,200 feet if laid end to end. Therefore, it is just as important to watch the kidneys as the bowels. Kidneys are working all the time and are Nature's chief way of taking the acids and poisonous waste out of the blood.

Healthy persons pass a pint a day thru the bladder which contains nearly 4 pounds of waste matter. If you pass less than this amount, your 79,200 feet of kidney tubes may be clogged with poisonous waste. This is the danger signal and may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbago, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

Kidneys should be watched closely and need cleaning out the same as bowels. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS, an old prescription, which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out your 79,200 feet of kidney tubes.

But don't take chances with strong drugs and so-called "kidney cures" which claim to fix you up in 15 minutes. Your common sense will tell you that this is impossible. Treatments of this nature may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS, the old reliable relief that contains no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist.

Mr. Terwilliger Married Today to Miss Roach

At high noon Thursday Miss Nell Wayne Roach of Athens, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Wayne Roach of Lynn Haven, Fla., became the bride of Mr. Meeker Terwilliger of this city.

The impressive service was read at the home of the bride in Athens in the presence of a few friends of Athens. Rev. Wilson of the Presbyterian church of that city officiated.

The couple left immediately after the ceremony for a motor trip south. They will be at home at 238 E. Main-st. this city, the latter part of December or the first of January.

The bride attended Ohio university, Athens, the College of Music at Atlanta, Ga., the Metropolitan College of Music in New York City and spent several years in the musical profession.

Mr. Terwilliger, an attorney, is active in church, civic and club affairs. He formerly was governor of the Southern District of Ohio of Rotary International and served as prosecuting attorney of Pickaway-co. for four years. He is a graduate of the College of Law at Ohio State university and a member of S. A. E. fraternity and also an honorary law fraternity.

SURPRISE PARTY HONORS BIRTHDAY

A group of thirty five friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Adolphus Pearce, W. Corwin-st. Wednesday evening, honoring Mr. Pearce on his fortieth birthday anniversary.

Cards were enjoyed during the evening and refreshments were served. Mr. Pearce received a number of gifts.

Austin Rader, Jackson-twp, had as his hunting guests, Thursday, Neil Rader and Arthur Shoemaker of Waverly; Jack Swartz of Chillicothe; James Summers of Washington C. H. and E. L. Anderson of Columbus. They were dinner guests at Mr. and Mrs. Rader's home.

MISS YATES ENTERTAINS FOR BRIDE-ELECT

Miss Helen Yates, N. Scioto-st., entertained with a party of charming appointments, Wednesday evening, at her home complimenting Miss Alice Briggs, bride-elect of Mr. Vaughn Crites of Stoutsville.

Beautiful yellow chrysanthemums in artistically arranged bouquets were placed to advantage in the rooms where the guests were assembled for bridge. Four tables of cards were in play and with the awarding of high score trophies to Miss Zara Sisley and Miss Wilmina Phebus, the hostess presented the honor guest with a lovely gift.

Yellow chrysanthemums centered the small tables when a delectable lunch was served after the game.

Guests were Miss Briggs, Miss Virginia Nelson, Miss Myriam Hitchcock, Miss Katherine Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Myra Rader, Miss Zara Sisley, Miss Dorothy Sampson, Miss Mary Wefler, Miss Wilmina Phebus, this city; Miss Louise Carpenter, Mrs. W. S. Carpenter, Darbyville; Mrs. W. H. Crites, Stoutsville; Miss Betsy Briggs, Miss Rosalyn Briggs, Miss Charlene Briggs and Miss Lilly Briggs of New Holland.

MUSIC CLUB INITIATES FOUR; ELECTS OFFICERS

The B Natural Music club met at the home of Mrs. Leon Van Vleet, W. High-st. Wednesday evening, for the initiation of candidates and election of officers for the coming year.

Junior Mowery was named president of the club; Virginia Dreisbach, vice president; Eleanor Dreisbach, secretary-treasurer, and Martha Belle Ferguson, Wahnita Barnhart, Betty Nickerson, membership committee.

Four new members were initiated including Regina Hudnell, Josephine Wolfe, Edward Howell and Jessie Dreisbach.

A program was presented and consisted of the following: Piano solo, "La Paloma" by Wahnita Barnhart; reading on Italian music of the eighteenth century and a piano solo, "Joys of Spring," by Eleanor Dreisbach; piano selection, "Consolation," Betty Nickerson; piano duet, "Flight of the Gypsies," Betty Nickerson and Mrs. Van Vleet; reading on Life of Franz Liszt, a piano number, "Consolation," by Liszt, Martha Belle Ferguson.

Members of the club besides the four initiated are Dorothy Howell, Martha Belle Ferguson, Virginia Dreisbach, Doris Leist, Eleanor Dreisbach, Eyer Dreisbach, Betty Nickerson, June West, Wahnita Barnhart, Marvina Wallace and Junior Mowery.

MISS YOUNG ENTERTAINS

Miss Lillian Young, S. Scioto-st., delightfully entertained the members of her bridge club at her home, Wednesday evening.

Two tables of cards were assembled and after several rounds of play trophies for high score were presented Mrs. Russell Miller and Mrs. Ray P. Reid. Mrs. Harry Clifton was a substituting guest.

Tempting refreshments were served at the small tables.

Field Marriage Ends in Divorce

The marriage of Marshall Field III, grandson of the late Chicago merchant prince, and his second wife, daughter of Mrs. "Willie" James, noted London hostess and goddaughter of King Edward VII, is headed for the matrimonial rocks in a Reno divorce court. Field and his wife, shown above, were married in 1930, shortly after he divorced his first wife.

ALTAR SOCIETY TO HAVE TURKEY DINNER

The Altar society of St. Joseph's church held a special meeting in the church basement, Wednesday evening, at which time it was decided to sponsor a community turkey dinner, Dec. 17. Committees were appointed and plans discussed. Miss Mary McKenzie is general chairman of the affair.

Plans were also discussed for the Rotary-Ann dinner which the society will serve.

AFTERNOON BRIDGE CLUB MEETS WITH MRS. RADER

Members of her afternoon bridge club and Mrs. Wayne Hoover and Mrs. Earl Rader were guests of Mrs. Orie Rader, Jackson-twp, Wednesday.

Bridge was in progress at two tables and high score trophies were awarded Mrs. Frank Reichelderfer and Mrs. James Butts. Mrs. Hoover was winner of the guest prize.

A delicious lunch was served late in the afternoon.

In two weeks Mrs. George Shock will entertain the club at her home in Jackson-twp.

MISS MARION IS HOSTESS

Mrs. Sterling Lamb and Miss Margaret Fohl were winners of high score prizes at the conclusion of the interesting bridge game in play at the home of Miss Virginia Marion, N. Scioto-st. Wednesday evening, when she entertained the members of her two table club.

The hostess served a dainty salad course after the game bringing the enjoyable hours to a close.

The club will meet next week with Miss Alice Phillips, Pinckney-st.

MRS. ADAMS ENTERTAINS BRIDGE CLUB MEMBERS

Two tables of bridge were assembled at the home of Mrs. James Adams, N. Court-st. Wednesday evening, when she entertained the members of her club and two guests, Mrs. Joe Burns and Mrs. Mark Armstrong.

When tallies were added Mrs. Paul Helwagen and Mrs. Burns were presented high score awards.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

SOCIAL CIRCLE MEETS AT MILLER HOME

About twenty members of the Ebenezer Social circle enjoyed a pleasant afternoon at the home of Mrs. Cliff Miller and Mrs. John Miller, Pickaway-twp. Wednesday, when they met for their November session.

Mrs. Clara Dreisbach, president, led the devotional service and presided during the business transactions.

Mrs. Cliff Miller and Mrs. John Miller entertained with a vocal duet and a contest was enjoyed.

Refreshments were served later in the afternoon by the hostess and Miss Alda Bartley.

The December meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. George Jury, Pickaway-twp.

My Tribute to the TEACHERS of TODAY

J. W. CRABTREE,
Secretary of the National Education Association

In the crisis of the seventies, I was amazed, as a boy, at the sacrifices made by the pioneer teacher of that day. Since then, I have observed that whether in time of famine, or in time of plenty, the teacher has lived not for self but for the children and the community. I have noticed that the selfless man or woman seldom remains long in the profession.

When the terrible days of the World War came upon us, who led in food conservation? Who led in the sale of Liberty Bonds? Who led in collecting food, clothing and funds for the Red Cross? Who kept the schools going, whether funds were available or not? And what of the teachers of today?

They are serving in a worse crisis than ever before. Their responsibility is greater. Environment is more destructive in its effect on children. The teacher load is almost doubled. In spite of all this the teacher is again leading in welfare activities. There may be a delay in pay—a month or six months—or the pay may be cut off for the year, yet the work of the school goes on.

Who is it that removes gloom from the lives of children who come from homes filled with sorrow and suffering because of the depression? Who is it that inspires children with courage and ambition? Who teaches them to look forward to better days? Who is it that is saving civilization in these dark hours?

All honor, therefore, to the teacher of today! Your courage and your devotion stand out as safeguards of our Democracy and as the hope of the nation!

All honor, therefore, to the teacher of today! Your courage and your devotion stand out as safeguards of our Democracy and as the hope of the nation!

Brands For Tires

FROM out of the relentless onslaught of automobile-part thieves upon the long-suffering owners of motor cars has come a proposal to "brand" automobile tires in an effort to remove at least one item from the potential booty of the thieves. The idea would be to burn the name of the owner or some other distinguishing mark into the outer covering of the tire with an electric pencil in the hope that many thieves, particularly the smaller fry, would be dissuaded from taking tires that may be so readily identified.

In the West in the days of cattle rustlers, however, a brand was not always a satisfactory deterrent, for the rustlers merely mutilated the brand or converted it into another they might claim for their own. (At least that's what we have always understood from the movies). Modern petty thieves are nothing if not as accomplished in the tricks of their trade as the old timers were, and probably it would be simple enough to overcome so primary a device as a tire brand. It would, in fact, doubtless serve only as a challenge to the ingenuity of the fraternity, spurring its bolder members on to further depredations in their particular field.

There are ways and ways of halting the thefts of automobile parts. But the best way is the simple process of working backward through the receivers of the goods, who resell tires and all manner of parts to car owners, sometimes back to the victims themselves. The old-fashioned remedies of lock and key for the first instance, penalty for the "fence" in the second and punishment, thirdly, for the thieves would accomplish more in a day than all the brands that might be applied in a month.

A depression isn't over until those who think it wicked to beat your debts are again a majority.

Aftermath

FOR an idea of how vast the machinery of campaigning for election to public office in New York may be, two advertisements that appeared side by side in the New York newspapers on the day following the election are illuminating. Both were the advertisement of office furniture concerns, and both advertised for sale the furniture in use in the late several campaign headquarters.

From the headquarters of Messrs. Moses, Taylor, McGoldrick and the Liberal party, one began furniture concerns offered "fine executive and commercial desks, 100 directors and office tables, 1,250 leather and wood chairs, leather settees and club chairs, steel filing equipment." From New York and New Jersey Democratic headquarters, one Wholesale offered a similar assortment. Mr. Regan's wares had been used "less than 30 days." We don't know what any of it brought.

You haven't heard of it yet, but the world will hear a woman say: "She's old!"

CAROLINE by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

SYNOPSIS
The Philip Rutledges and Henry Dunsworths have been enemies for years, but love sometimes laughs at feuds, so Howard Dunsworth becomes engaged to lovely Caroline Rutledge despite their parents' opposition. Then Henry ruins Philip in business. This changes everything. "If we marry, my father will cut me off, and if I know you, it wouldn't please you any more to be poor than it would me," Howard tells Caroline. Disappointed that money should mean so much to Howard, Caroline breaks their engagement. Another crushing blow falls when Philip tells Caroline and her mother, but always a pampered, selfish woman—that they must vacate "Hawthorn," their lovely home, and live in a poorer section of town. Caroline had never attributed strength to her mother, but she expected her to carry through gracefully instead of giving way to her emotions as she had. Caroline is doubly disappointed when her father, whom she thought capable of meeting any emergency, accepts defeat. Returning from a ride, Caroline learns that Howard telephoned, but she refuses to call him, saying, "Howard will have to come back to me unasked." Their financial status has given Mrs. Rutledge a change of heart where Howard is concerned. "Beggars cannot be choosers," she reminds Caroline. Howard takes a trip to California. Caroline goes with her father to look over their future home and her heart sinks at the sight of it. A slatternly woman bears down upon them from the porch.

CHAPTER IX

Mr. Rutledge had never seen the woman before. He was startled to learn that she recognized him. For a moment he was dazed and unsteady, but when he recovered himself, he told her without words to answer her. "So you've come in person, Mr. Rutledge, to see what yer high and mighty inflexible can do to poor folks who ain't got no come back agin ye, have ye? Well, it's a fine sight ye'll be seein'—a poor family turned out into the street on yer say-so! But just you..."

"Wait!" Mr. Rutledge commanded sharply. "Are you Mrs. Gamis?" "Would ye be explainin' somethin' else to know who ye be?" the woman retorted.

"Then just a moment, please," Philip Rutledge resumed in a tone that silenced her. "Your husband was given money for a month's rent elsewhere. He agreed to be out of this house by noon today. There has been no unjust influence used to dispossess you. I should like to speak to Mr. Gamis," he added coldly.

The woman's expression underwent a swift change; a new anger replaced the old. "Oh, an' ye should," she mocked. "An' so'd be I. The good for nothin' loafin'..."

"Is he about?" Mr. Rutledge broke in hastily.

"Is he about?" the woman repeated with a grim laugh. "Yes, I guess he's about by this time—just about under the table down at Smokey Joe's. The onery..."

"Never mind," again Mr. Rutledge cut her off. "Have you rented another place?"

"We can park a while in the McCullough's alley woodshed," she said dejectedly.

Mr. Rutledge took out his billfold. From it he extracted a banknote and gave it to her. "It is important to me to have possession of the house immediately," he said. "Have you engaged a moving van?"

The woman looked at the bill and at the pile of furniture on the porch and in the front yard, among which a number of raggedy children were playing.

"Thank you, mister," she said, and Caroline, watching her, caught the glint of a tear in her eyes. "I can get one in a bit."

"We would like to go inside," she said abruptly.

"Come right ahead," the woman invited, all her ill-feeling dissipated.

Caroline stepped herself to cross the threshold. She felt as though they were driving out of the house people to whom it was home while it would be an affliction to her and her parents to live there.

"It's a nice house," Mrs. Gamis said wistfully. "I hate to be leavin' it."

"Would you go up, my dear? I shouldn't know what would be wanted to furnish them."

Caroline understood. Already he had seen enough of the house. His defeat served to bolster up her own will power. Deliberately she kept herself from thinking of the ugliness and dirt about her and made mental notes of the furnishings required to make the rooms as comfortable and attractive as possible.

"They're leaving the house," she said. "I hope you will find another nice house, Mrs. Gamis."

Alone with her father in the car she burst out: "Is this absolutely necessary, Father? It's a shame to put that family out. Couldn't we get an apartment or rent a small house in a better neighborhood?"

Mr. Rutledge answered wearily: "Do you think I didn't go over all that before giving into this? I tell you, Caroline, my credit is gone, or it will be shortly. I can't pay rent. What we get from the sale at Hawthorn must be used to settle old debts. They amount to a small fortune. We've only a little to live on. And the Gamises are seven months behind in their rent. I couldn't afford to let them stay on in any event."

"But won't it be harder for you to re-establish yourself in the business world if you start from..."

"From South Town?" Caroline ventured.

"I suppose so," he agreed listlessly.

"But Father, you know Mother and I would let you sell our jewels!"

A short, broken laugh answered her. "The best of your mother's things and yours too, were in the bank vault. I'm afraid, unless you wish me to repudiate our just debts, they'll never come back to you. You see, Caroline, when this thing struck me I had my lawyer and an accountant straighten things out for me. Yesterday morning they laid the cards on the table. Before I came home to you and your mother it was definitely settled—this house, the cars, everything. I am cleaned out, my dear. All I had left was friends, and I know that not one of them has money to lend. I'm afraid we'll have to face it as it is, however bad it may be."

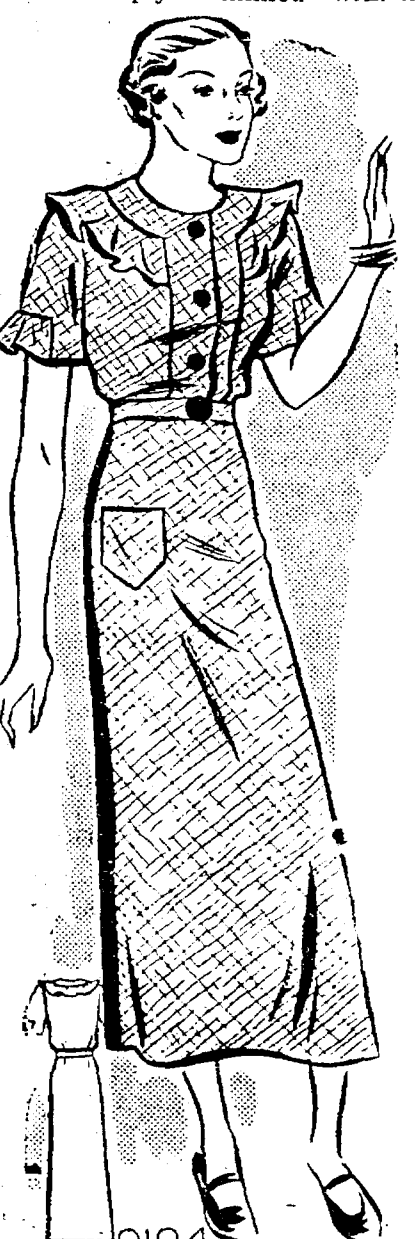

Caroline choked down the lump in her throat. "Right-o," she said simply. They talked no more of their troubles. And when Mrs. Rutledge asked Caroline, in a strained, apprehensive tone, what the house on Edge Street was like, Caroline told her that it was terrible but they were lucky to have it, and she for one meant to make the most of it.

"You know, Mother," she added dreamily, "it's an adventure, this getting a slant at life from an angle so new to us. After all, what were we here at Hawthorn House? In convenient patch pocket. Any dainty cotton fabric, either figured or plain, would look well made up in this design. If you choose a bright coral monotone, for example, you might make the frills of white for interesting contrast.

Clothes may not make the "man of the house" but they certainly do a lot toward brightening his wife's outlook on life. Take this pretty frock for instance; even its frills are on the up and up, placed as they are to emphasize the flat-tern of the young, round neckline and peep sleeves. The bodice lays claim to style importance in its well-cut front panel, and the skirt is simply trimmed with a

Pattern 9194 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32. Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards 36 inch fabric.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern.

Do not miss our WINTER PATTERN BOOK of smart, easy-to-make clothes designed by our style authority, MARIAN MARTIN. Styles for every age and all occasions. PRICE OF BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS. BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

Household Arts

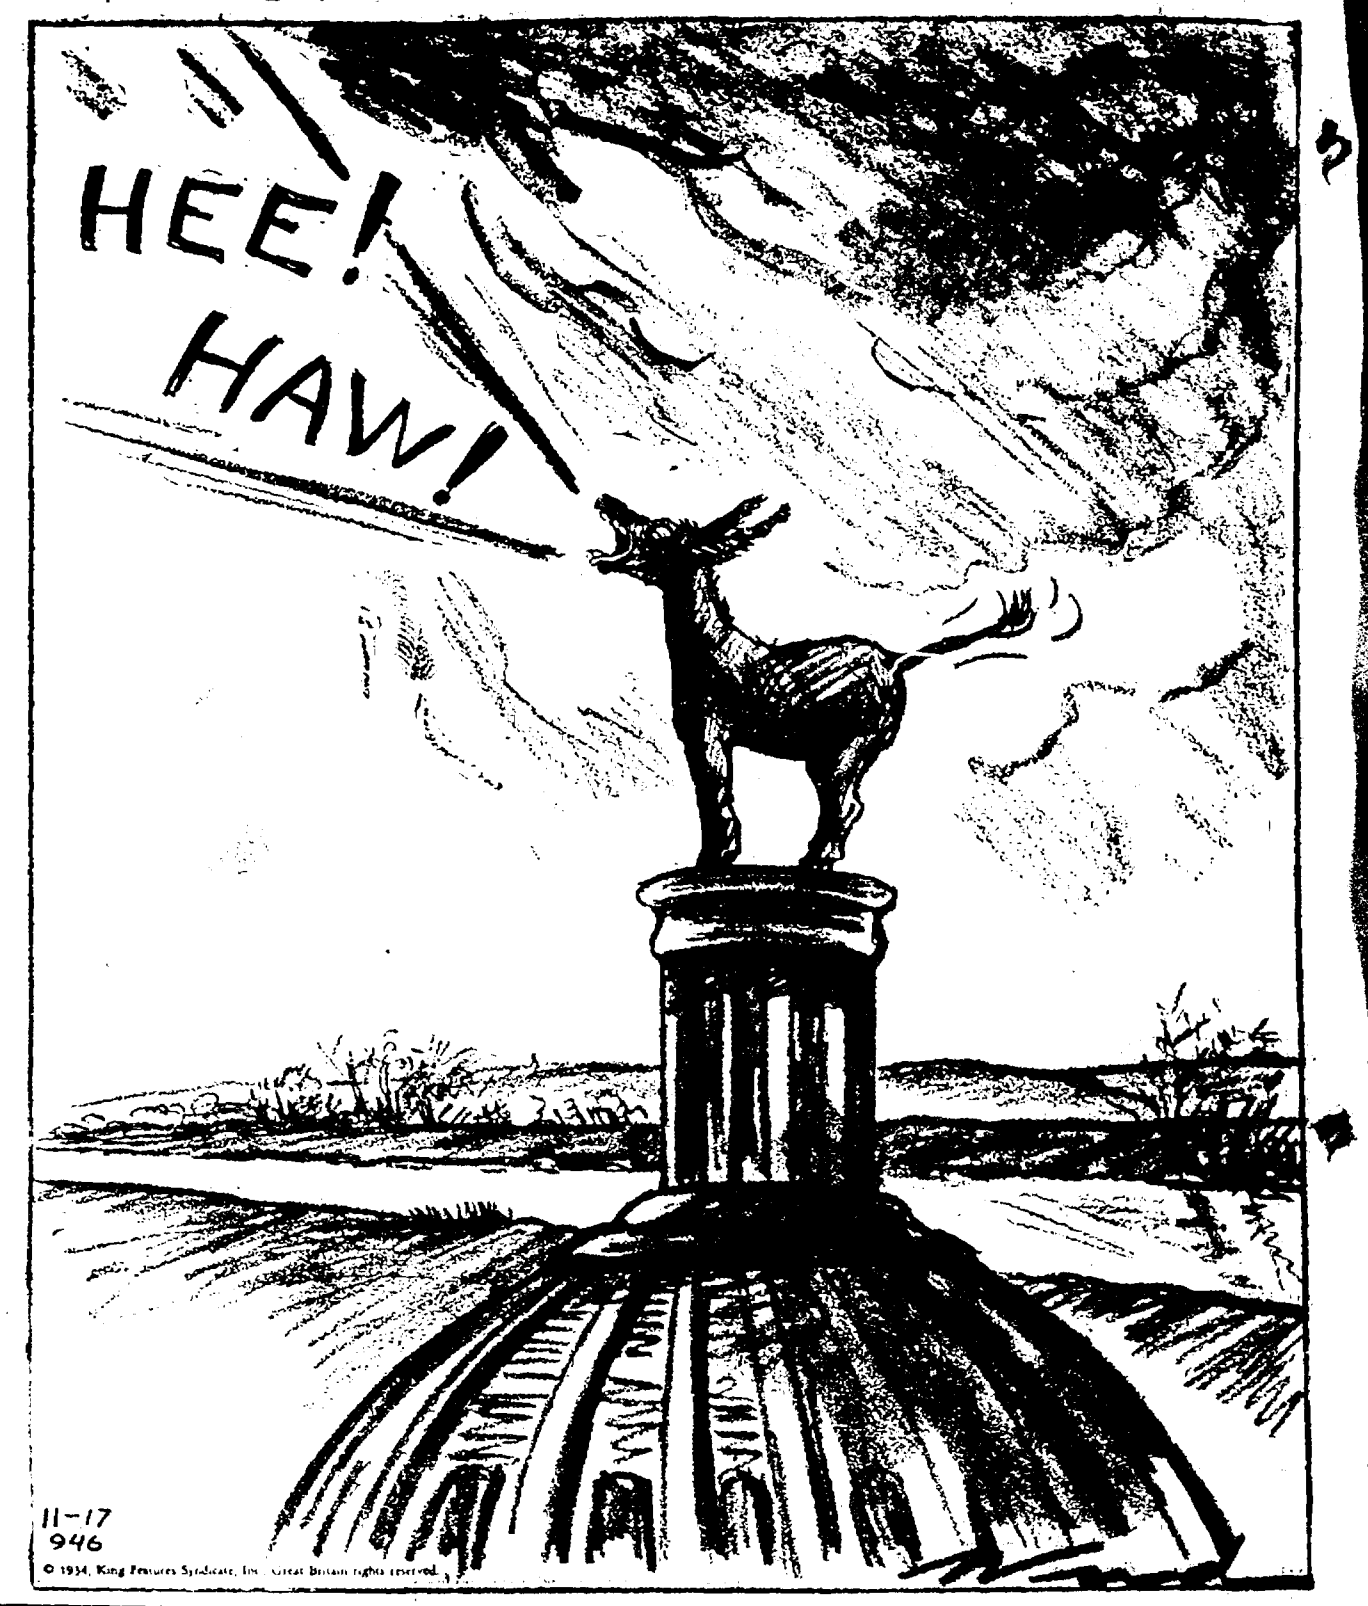

What youngster is not fascinated by a Mammy or Pickaninny doll? Here is a chance to make them, and dress them gayly. The dolls are easy to do, and the clothes simple to sew. The hair is made of wool, so embroidered that it looks curly as it should. Delight some youngster at Christmas with either one or both of these gay dolls!

In pattern 5247 you will find a transfer pattern for a doll about 14 inches high; a pattern for making the clothes of the Mammy and Pickaninny; material requirements and directions for making doll, clothes and haircomb.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Circleville Herald Household Arts Dept., 124 W. Main-st., Circleville, O.

Now Is the Time to Avoid Colds

Authority Gives Some Health Rules to Follow During This Season of Changeable Weather; Suggests Treatment, Too

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

WITHIN A SHORT time the season for colds will be here. Though colds are prevalent at all times of the year they are more prone to occur during cold, changeable, and inclement weather.

A word of warning and advice at this time may be of value in avoiding this annoying and often times serious infection.

The usual cause of the common cold has never been discovered. Yet many simple rules of hygiene are sufficient to guard against the frequent taking of a cold. In most instances colds can be traced to neglect of the health of the body. Everyone should be familiar with certain fundamentals that aid in preventing them.

Treatment for a Cold
At the onset of a cold beneficial results are often obtained by taking a hot bath or foot bath for fifteen minutes. Wrap yourself in a cotton blanket and go to bed. Though it is imperative to keep the body warm, it is equally important to have plenty of fresh air in the room.

Bear in mind that some persons take cold more easily than others. This can be explained by the difference in body resistance. The ability of the body to resist a cold is lowered by chilling, loss of sleep, inadequate food and continued exposure to the germs of the infection.

Never neglect a cold. It is a menace to the health of the community as well as to the afflicted individual. Repeated colds are a sign of lowered resistance. They may be the forerunners of a more serious disease, such as bronchitis or pneumonia.

My advice to all my readers is to follow carefully the rules outlined. Early attention and care of a cold are imperative. They will hasten recovery and eliminate the danger of serious complications.

Answers to Health Queries
Mrs. S. V. Q.—I have had a chronic catarrhal infection all my life. This has infected my entire system and I am always completely exhausted. I am contemplating a complete rest for six months. What foods should I eat and what activities would be of the greatest benefit under the existing circumstances? What about sun baths?
A.—For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your questions. The rules for good health should be of great benefit and advantage.

Miss L. L. Q.—I would like to know what causes one to see a dark spot before the eyes, particularly when out of doors? Will you please tell me what causes little red veins on the face?
A.—This is probably due to eye strain. However, this condition may also be due to indigestion or faulty elimination. For full particulars restate your question and send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Some people's skin is thinner than others which causes the veins to be more prominent. This may also be due to high blood pressure.

THE DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Extended public hearing was held on the measure last Congress, and Costigan intends forcing a floor vote on the issue. Samuel Augustus Maverick, grandfather of Maury Maverick, one of the new Democratic Congressmen, was a Representative of the Republic of Texas before the Lone Star State joined the Union. He escaped death at the Alamo by being chosen as representative of the defenders to the state convention which declared independence from Mexico. His grandson, serving in France with the 58th Infantry of the regular army, was severely wounded in action and awarded the Purple Heart medal.

MOVIES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Actors and professional ball players join forces to figure in a gripping detective mystery in "Death on the Diamond," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's sensational new production, coming Friday and Saturday to the Cliftona Theatre.

Based on an amazing story by Cortland Fitzsimmons, author of "70,000 Witnesses," and dealing with a series of mysterious killings in a baseball team during a pennant race, the new picture blends harrowing bewilderment with hundreds of uproarious comedy interludes, and with a love romance, in a distinctively new form of screen entertainment.

Big league ball clubs such as the St. Louis Cardinals, Cincinnati Reds and Chicago Cubs are shown in action.

A notable cast includes Robert Young and Madge Evans in the romantic leads. Prominent supporting players include Nat Pendleton, Ted Healy and C. Henry Gordon.

If they skimp at home so they can make a show when they travel they are definitely middle class.

ASHVILLE SCHOOL NEWS

The Sixth Grade entertained, grades 1 to 5 last week with a picture show of "Older Times." The scenes were constructed in shoe boxes and showed such places as Canada, Africa, China and Holland. Scenes from our own country were Angkor Falls, Grand Canyon, and the Luray Caverns. The boxes were taken to other rooms by members of the class.

Fully 500 of grade sent a letter out west last week and received the following collection from California: Olive branch, holly berries, Heaven wood, olive cactus plants, palm branches and shells from the Pacific ocean.

The Sixth grade pupils elected Ruth Ann Sark as the new president of their History club last week.

The eighth grade has completed the Oct.-Nov. series of the Columbian Achievement Tests in Mathematics, English, Science, Reading, and History. Pupils making highest scores in each subject will be announced next week.

The Sophomore Class has been studying "Silas Marner" in English.

Mary Elizabeth Miller entertained the Sophomore Class to a delightful Halloween party at her home Friday night, October 26.

The following refreshments were served: Jessie Fern Floyd, Marion Martin, Emerson Reid, John Peters, Mary Elizabeth Miller, Jane Lindsay, Ruth Courtwright, Walter Greg, Leo Berger, Lucille Hedges, Jessie Tustin, Grace Tigner, Bessie Maupin, Harold Cook, Wilbur Neff, Wallace Potthurn, Richard Toole, Iva Jean Good.

The Home Economics class of Ashville High School are planning to give a tea in honor of the mothers on Thursday afternoon, Nov. 15, 1934.

Mrs. Cartwright of the State Department of Health spent Monday of last week talking health to the Ashville pupils and advising them upon personal problems.

Delano Younklin had the misfortune to rush his thumb against the circular saw in the manual training room last Friday.

Two pupils have withdrawn from the Ashville schools during the past week: Hazel Hoffines, eighth grade went to Reynoldsburg and Zella Reese, freshman, returned to Waterloo. However, we have had two new students to take their places: Elmer Morrow, freshman, and his brother Robert, a junior.

William Toole installed a call bell in the manual training room last week. Those classes should change more promptly hereafter.

Last week in the fourth grade we made health posters. They tell us that milk is our best food.

We are observing Book-Week by having our school library books, by printing in books that we own, and wish to share with others, and by making book marks and book posters.

Unemployed Insurance Is Planned by President

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—President Roosevelt intends to ask congress to enact legislation providing unemployment insurance.

He told a gathering of members of his economic security committee this much. He also advised them that he intended introducing in the new congress a general program of social protection legislation. He did not say what he would ask beyond unemployment insurance.

The president intends to have the job insurance system financed through contributions, and not taxes.

"We must not allow this type of insurance to become a dole; it is not charity," he said.

The president's address was an informal one. It came as the committee and its advisory body, appointed less than a week ago, gathered before his desk after a day of discussion.

SECURITY FOR AGED

Mr. Roosevelt also indicated in his informal talk that in time, not necessarily in the impending session of congress, he would seek to provide some sort of security for the needy aged.

At the same time, the president pointed out that he and his administration could not work miracles. He explained that he could only go so far and said:

"On some points it is possible to be definite.

"Unemployment insurance will be in the program—

"I do not know whether this is the time for any federal legislation on old age security—but I hope that in time we may be able to provide security for the aged, a sound and a uniform system which will provide true security."

Mr. Roosevelt stressed the necessity of providing for the general good rather than for the individual in his program. He explained:

"In developing each component part of the broad program for economic security, we must not lose sight of the fact that there can be no security for the individual in the midst of general insecurity.

"Our first task is to get the economic system to function so that there will be a greater general security. Everything that we do with intent to increase the security of the individual will, I am confident, be a stimulus to recovery.

"At this time we are deciding on long-time objectives. We are developing a plan of administration which can be fitted the various parts of the security program when it is timely to do so. We cannot work miracles or solve all our problems at once. What we can do is to lay a sound foundation on which we can build a structure to give a greater measure of safety and happiness to the individual than we have ever known.

"In this task you can greatly help."

Measurements Count
"Much depends on small measurements," said H. H. Ho, the sage of Chintown. "Your high hat conveys an impression of dignity. Should you increase the height by an inch a month it would soon become ridiculous."

Financial Dictator?

Emile Franqui

Appointment of Emile Franqui, above, as financial dictator of Belgium to straighten out the nation's affairs was considered likely in political circles on the eve of the resignation of Premier Charles de Broqueville and his cabinet. Franqui served as finance dictator in 1926 when he stabilized the franc.

the bank that "the law's coming." The gang hurriedly piled out of the bank and rushed to their automobile standing nearby. They sped out of town toward the east, witnesses said.

Sheriff Bruce Pratt of Wood-County immediately notified the authorities at Findlay and Toledo and a widespread search was started throughout this area.

A hasty checkup disclosed that the bandits obtained no loot in their foray. Damages to the bank by the nitroglycerine blasts, however, were expected to amount to several thousand dollars.

STATE HUNTING

November 25, on coon, January 15 and on opossum February 1.

State health officials warned hunters of the danger of contracting tularemia or "rabbit fever" from handling the rabbits. They suggested that the hunters wear rubber gloves when cleaning the animals.

Last minute appeals to hunters to protect hen pheasants, farm livestock and their own lives were broadcast by radio by conservation department officials. Hunters also were urged to obtain permission from farm owners before shooting on private land.

Constitution of Canada

The constitution of the Dominion of Canada went into effect July 1, 1867. The confederation, as inaugurated in 1867, consisted only of the four provinces of Ontario (Upper Canada), Quebec (Lower Canada), Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. Provision was made, however, for the admission of other areas. The provinces now number nine, Prince Edward Island, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia having been added.

SEEN NEAR HOME

The little kindergarten pupil was last seen alive by a neighbor as she was within two blocks of her suburban home returning from school. She was walking, dressed in a plain blue and white dress, swinging her pink lunch-basket in one hand, and carrying school materials in the other. That was just eight weeks to the day before her body was identified after it had been discovered in a shallow grave in a remote cemetery just out of Nashville.

The skull had been crushed in two places with a hammer or similar blunt instrument. A large rag, evidently used as a gag when the girl was murdered, was removed from the mouth. Several inches of those dirt concealed the body.

The small body was found by negro workmen Tuesday and was identified by Dr. Leonard F. Fogarty, a dentist, who had filled an upper right molar tooth of the girl a short time before she disappeared, and by Dr. Herman Spitz, a pathologist and acting coroner's physician, yesterday.

On September 19, the day Dorothy Ann disappeared, an army of searchers scoured the neighborhood and found a large blot in the center of a street near the Distelhurst home. It was later analyzed as blood and traces of it were found for a distance of about fifty feet, giving rise to the theory she had been struck by a car. She had to cross two railroad tracks to reach her home and some believed she had been hit by a train.

SOUGHT BROTHER
A few days later it was disclosed that the girl's half brother, A. E. Distelhurst, Jr., had left home after a quarrel, and the theory arose that he had abducted the girl for revenge. He was located near Jacksonville, Fla., October 21, and questioned at length by federal agents who declared they were satisfied the 18-year-old boy knew nothing about his sister's disappearance. He has since returned home.

Dead Doctor Heals Stomach Ailments

A weird story is told of a well-known specialist reaching from the grave to cure stomach suffering. Years ago this doctor created a prescription for stomach ulcers, acid stomach, gas pains, heartburn, indigestion, bloating, belching, and other symptoms when caused by excess acid. Then the good doctor died. But his name brought fame after death as one user told another of his wonderful prescription. In the past six years, 54,169 grateful persons have written letters telling of their recoveries. This prescription is now known to hundreds of thousands as the Unga Treatment. All stomach sufferers may have a free sample by writing to Unga, Suite 66, Foot-Schulze Bldg., St. Paul, Minn. The seven-day trial box of Unga Tablets is sold under a money-back guarantee of satisfaction by Hamilton & Ryan.

Suffering In Silence

Her friends no longer sympathize with her—she has told her all about VATO, but she is one of those old-fashioned souls that still believe women were "born to suffer."

Women who use VATO (and there are many among your acquaintances) use it regularly—they would never think of permitting periodical pain to endanger their health and beauty. VATO is so dependable, is absolutely harmless—two very good reasons why physicians recommend it. Why experiment with patent medicines?

HIGHWAY PROGRAM RELATED BY ICKES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—A great trans-continental highway system was envisioned today by Secretary of Interior Ickes as part of a long-term public employment program, designed to relieve the nation of the threat of doles. The idea was set forth in an article in the current issue of the magazine, "Today."

For immediate employment, Ickes said a new public works program should concentrate on rural electrification and grade-crossing elimination. These, with similar projects, that can be launched at once and completed in a few months, were suggested by Ickes as the immediate need.

DRUGS?

Don't make the mistake of giving even a 14-year old boy strong medicines meant for adults.

Here is the proper treatment for the child who has grown sluggish.

Proof

Boys and girls who have reached their "teens" are not ready to be given powerful drugs!

It is not wise to give laxatives of adult strength to a child, just because you give them less frequently or in less amounts. Stomach upsets and bowels troubles of growing children can often be traced to this single mistake.

For Safer Relief

of constipation in children, do this: Stop all use of mineral drugs, whether they are salts, pills, tablets, or "candy" form. Even once a month is too often to give any child a cathartic strong enough for adults.

Use a liquid laxative containing senna (a natural laxative). California Syrup of Figs has the right amount for children's use, and this rich, fruity syrup does not harm or upset a child's system.

When you change to pure California Syrup of Figs instead of harsh medicines, you risk no more violence to your child's appetite, digestion, and general physical condition. You'll have a safer, more satisfactory result. Those little upsets and complaints just disappear as a rule when this treatment is followed.

THE "LIQUID TEST"

This is the way to treat occasional sluggishness, or constipation in a child of any age:

First: select a liquid laxative of the proper strength for children. Second: give the dose suited to the child's age, and condition. Third: reduce the dose, if repeated, until the bowels are moving without any help at all.

An ideal laxative for this purpose is California Syrup of Figs which every druggist keeps in stock. Be certain that it is the genuine product, with "California" blown in the bottle.
